

Gendebien still has sights set on Congress regardless of when election is

BY JIMMY LAWTON
North Country This Week

Congressional hopeful Blake Gendebien says his plan to win the 21st Congressional District has not changed, despite the fact there will be no special election now that Rep. Elise Stefanik will not vacate her seat.

In a prepared statement sent to North Country This Week Gendebien said he still plans to bring his work ethic and experience to Washington D.C.

“I started this campaign because the North Country deserves a representative who truly knows what it means to work hard and deliver for our community – and what’s been made clear today is that Washington knows I’m the right person to do so,” he said. “The Administration is abandoning Congresswoman Stefanik’s nomination because they need her vote to cut Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, VA benefits, and rural education in order to give billions of dollars in handouts to the ultra-wealthy.”

Gendebien says he’s still committed “to representing the community that raised me, regardless of when that election is.”

Elise Stefanik had been slated to serve in the president’s cabinet as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, but now she will retain her seat in the 21st Congressional District at President Donald Trump’s request.

Stefanik had been selected by the president to serve as his U.S. Ambassador, but in a statement he posted to on Truth Social, he said he needed her more in the congressional seat.

“With a very tight Majority, I don’t want to take a chance on anyone else running for Elise’s seat. The people love Elise and, with her, we have nothing to worry about come Election Day. There are others that can do a good job at the United Nations. Therefore, Elise will stay in Congress, rejoin the House Leadership Team, and continue to fight for our amazing American People. Speaker Johnson is thrilled! I look forward to the day when Elise is able to join my Administration in the future. She is absolutely FANTASTIC. Thank you Elise!” Trump said in his statement.

Stefanik’s office did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

With Stefanik remaining in place, there will be no special election. That effectively puts an end to efforts of Lisbon farmer and Democrat Blake Gendebien who had sought to replace her.

Republicans never put forward a candidate though Assemblyman Chris Tague, Sen. Dan Stec and Liz Joy were all said to be among the finalists for the Republican nod.

According to several reports Trump withdrew the nomination following discussions with Speaker Mike Johnson’s office regarding the interests of the House Majority.

Troopers identify people found dead in Gouverneur home

GOVERNEUR — An investigation has revealed that a shooting incident occurred on Fox Farm Road in the town of Gouverneur, involving a male suspect who shot a female victim, according to state police.

The two deceased individuals have been identified as Sheila M. Van Norton, age 66, and Thomas H. Van Norton, age 68, both from Gouverneur.

Troopers executed multiple search warrants, and processed the scene to gather evidence, officers said.

On March 27, at 1:30 p.m., an autopsy was performed at Canton-Potsdam Hospital by Forensic Pathologist Dr. Scott F. LaPoint. The autopsy for Sheila M. Van Norton determined that the cause of death was a gunshot wound to the head, and the manner of death was ruled a homicide.

The autopsy for Thomas H. Van Norton established that the cause of death was a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, and this was ruled a suicide.

This is an ongoing investigation. More information will be provided once it’s available.

The New York State Police are being assisted by the St. Lawrence County District Attorney’s Office and the St. Lawrence County Sheriff’s Department.

Hochul will not renew executive order that bars COs from working in government jobs, Assemblyman says

BY JIMMY LAWTON
North Country This Week

An executive order barring corrections officers who participated in illegal strikes from working in state and local government positions will expire April 9 and will not be renewed, according to Assemblyman Scott Gray, R-Watertown.

The controversial order came down from Gov. Kathy Hochul following strikes that forced the state to deploy the National Guard to stabilize the prisons.

The strikes came in the wake of mounting concerns regarding safety. Corrections officers said the HALT act created an unsafe working environment for themselves and for inmates.

During the strikes several prisons experienced inmate uprisings which required the Corrections Emergency Response Team to be deployed.

More than 2,000 corrections officers lost their jobs as result of the strikes and the deal struck between the union and the state did not restore the officers ability to use segregated confinement as a means of keeping order to pre-HALT act levels.

Hochul's order did not just bar the terminated officers from holding state jobs, but also from holding jobs in local government.

Several counties questioned the legality of the order as it restricted the county's ability to govern under home rule laws laid out in the state's constitution.

Assemblyman Scott Gray (R-Watertown) released the latest episode of "The Gray Area," addressing key issues delaying the passage of this year's state budget along with pressing policy concerns, including Executive Order 47.3, public safety measures and the financial impact of the Extended Producer Responsibility Act (EPR).

As part of the ongoing budget discussions Gray said there are still efforts to revisit the HALT Act underway.

"We would also encourage the governor to revisit the HALT Act and make necessary course corrections," Gray said. "This is yet another example of policy going too far and needing to be brought back to reality."

However, Gray said that while those discussions are ongoing, there was success regarding the repeal of Executive Order 47.3, which barred local governments from hiring corrections officers terminated during the state prison work stoppages.

Gray and Sen. Dan Stec introduced a resolution to overturn the order, and following mounting legal pressure, Gov. Hochul announced it will expire on April 9, allowing local governments to rehire affected officers.

Village of Massena possibly raising water, sewer and refuse rates

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

MASSENA -- Water, sewer and refuse rates are set to increase in the village but residents will first have an opportunity to weigh-in during a public hearing April 9 at 5 p.m.

Under the proposed local law, monthly water rates per 1000 gallons for users inside the village would increase from $4.89 to $5.38 for the first 3,000 gallons, from $4.15 to $4.57 for the next 17,000 gallons and from $3.21 to $3.53 for excess of 20,000 gallons.

For users outside the village, monthly rates for 1,000 gallons will increase from $5.14 to $5.65 for residential users, $9.35 to $10.29 for commercial users, $9.35 to $10.29 for industrial users and $5.14 to $5.65 for institutional users.

Users outside of the village that are not within a district will see residential rates increase from $6.43 to $7.07 for 1,000 gallons, $11.68 to $12.85 for commercial users, from $935 to $10.29 for industrial customers and from $6.43 to $7.07 for institutional customers.

As for sewer rates, user charges would increase from $9.33 per month per unit to $10.73 per month per unit.

Solid waste rates would increase from $25 to $27.50 per month per unit, whether family or commercial, from $50 to $55 bi-monthly and from $75 to $82.50 quarterly.

Rates changes proposed would be effective on July 1, 2025.

Village officials say the rate changes are necessary for a multitude of factors, including increased rates at the county level for refuse removal, as well as increased operating costs for the Department of Public Works.

Rates have not been adjusted for several years, according to DPW Superintendent Marty Miller.

"It's been years since we have gone back and looked at this and it's time we do that now. We're losing money each month and that's just not sustainable," he recently told village board members.

Miller said the rate increases would slowly help offset the losses but Mayor Greg Paquin said a phase in for the rate increases would ensure residents do not get "sticker shock" at a time when the cost of goods and services continues to rise in other sectors.

"Instead of doing it all at once and hitting everyone with a large increase, I've proposed we phase it in over five years to ease the burden. The rates need to be increased but let's not do it all at once," he said.

Woman allegedly cashed dead relative's checks

MASSENA— A woman who cashed social security checks by forging a deceased relative's signature was charged with theft and forgery charges Tuesday.

Michelle L. Trombly, 41, of Massena, was charged March 25 with one count third-degree grand larceny, and one count second-degree forgery, troopers say.

Police report Trombly allegedly received checks made out to a deceased family member from the Department of Financial Services, and cashed the checks by forging the relative's name.

Trombly cited and released on her own recognizance.

Village may keep $2.4M for waterline after Air Products cancels project

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

MASSENA -- Following the withdrawal of Air Products from the town of Massena, a redundant raw water line and the grant funding tied to the project remain in limbo. Village officials now must decide if they plan to hold onto a $2.4 million grant or give the funds back to Empire State Development. The water line, which was deemed necessary for the green hydrogen facility, is one that village officials say they are keen to install given the age of the current water line. Department of Public Works Superintendent Marty Miller said the 24-inch line is “made of concrete and is probably 65, 70 years old.” Miller said he had concerns that if the line failed water service to the northern portion of the village would be heavily impacted. He first brought his concerns to the board last June when he informed them of the age of the waterline. A 12-inch secondary line is also in the area, but that line is meant for emergencies only. Village officials had voiced optimism that Air Products would help with the various upgrades needed to the village water system, including a new redundant water line and pump upgrades in the water treatment facility. Those hopes were dashed last month when a new board of directors took over Air Products and

Superfund meeting

MASSENA — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will hold a Public Information Meeting on Thursday, April 10, from 6-7:30 p.m. at NY Power Authority, Hawkins Point Visitors Center, 21 Hawkins Point Rd., to discuss in-river work at the Grasse River Superfund site (aka Alcoa Aggregation). The work will repair portions of the cap that were damaged due to high river flows caused by Hurricane Debbie in August 2024.

axed the $500 million project, which would have brought 90 full-time jobs to Massena. With the cancellation of the project came the loss of a $300,000 contract to supply water to Air Products as well. Mayor Greg Paquin said those funds were never factored into the next fiscal year budget but commented “it would have been really nice to have, don’t get me wrong.” Village officials must now weigh keeping the grant funding awarded just months ago or sending it back, something both Paquin and Miller were not keen on. “I hate to give away money,” Paquin said. Miller said if the funds were given back, the village would not receive them again. He said one major issue is the funds are earmarked for that specific project and cannot be shifted to another project in the village, even if they would be used for another water project. “They (ESD) gave me a month here to buy time for you guys to make a decision on this. We can just turn it in, saying we don’t want it. But, I can’t tell you how long that intake line is going to last. It’s been there for 60-something years, going on 70 years,” he said.

Village officials must now weigh keeping the grant funding awarded just months ago or sending it back.

Miller suggested continually extending the grant for “three, maybe four years,” saying many municipalities do the same as they develop projects of this scale. Village Administrator Monique Chatland cautioned against the idea, saying additional funding through grants or other sources like the USDA can “be touchy” if large sums of grant funding are not expended. “It can be really touchy how it works. It may impact other potential funding and they might not be as inclined to award us more funding if we don’t do something with this grant,” she said. Miller said returning the funds may suggest to ESD that the village did not need the funds. He said that could also impact future funding for the village. Miller suggested the village extend the grant out, saying it wouldn’t cost anything to do so. “I think it would be, in my opinion, foolish to give back the $2.4 million because you’re never going to get it back,” he said. He said ESD would send a letter “maybe every 18 months” requesting an update on the potential expenditure of funds, at which time the village could extend the grant further. Miller said he has grants that have been extended multiple times “for like five years” that he continually puts extensions on. He suggested the village work on a clean drinking water plan, which would allow the funds to be utilized and would allow him to seek further funding from other sources. Miller said the board ultimately must decide on how to proceed with the project, commenting that finishing the redundant water line would mean “somebody won’t have to deal with this years down the road.” Cost of materials for such projects have also been a concern, something Miller addressed during the meeting too. He commented his research suggested materials would be $1.3 million, giving him a better idea of what grant funding would be available for the project if the village were to pursue. Chatland touched on the extension, saying an extension for a year would be beneficial while the village defined the scope of the project further and finalized a budget. She cautioned that delaying too long could still impact future awards, something the village cannot afford to deal with as multiple water projects are in the planning stages. Village officials previously said the Bowers Street water tower was of concern and would likely need replacement in the next five to 10 years. That project will cost several million dollars, they said. In the end, trustees opted to keep the funding for now while the village works to secure additional funding. “I would be in favor of keeping it at least for one year and seeing what we can do and revisit it in a year’s time,” Paquin said. Miller said if all else fails the village can return the funds to ESD.

Officials table resolution opposing end of walleye restocking program

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

MASSENA -- Village trustees tabled a resolution that would have voiced opposition to the Department of Environmental Conservation ending a 40-year walleye restocking program.

The move came during the March village board meeting, with trustees saying they wanted to learn more about the discontinuation before adopting the resolution.

DEC officials were on hand during the Feb. 3 county Board of Legislators full board meeting, presenting on the findings of the program and detailing why it was being discontinued after 40 years of work.

The program operated for roughly 40 years thanks to the St. Lawrence Valley Sportsman's Club and the DEC who worked together to stock walleye in the Oswegatchie River.

In December, the DEC reported in a recent press release that because of that program, the walleye population has remained stable at higher levels for years now, in Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

DEC officials said the program was “a huge success” and no longer necessary, as spawning beds and overall numbers were “consistent and self-sustaining” at this point.

The program, which was funded by the DEC but overseen by the St. Lawrence Valley Sportsman’s Club, was the only one of its kind to receive such funding and support, according to Region 6 Director Randall Young.

Legislators passed a resolution the following week, saying the decision will have dire consequences for walleye populations in the future as sportsmen actively fish the species nearly year-round.

Mayor Greg Paquin said he was first approached about the program ending by Ogdensburg City Council member Dan Skamperle, who raised multiple concerns with the end of the program.

St. Lawrence County legislative

Chairman David Forsythe has also raised concerns in recent months, including introducing the resolution to oppose the end of the program.

“This has been a very effective program in terms of stocking the St. Lawrence River with the walleyes and has become a major fishing area. Dave Forsythe has been on this as well. They said this is not good,” Paquin said.

Paquin credited the program with changing how fishing for walleye was conducted in the St. Lawrence River, noting how anglers could go days without a catch. Now, anglers stand a change of multiple catches each time they go out, he said.

He said that change has led to an influx of tourism for the county, as well as Massena in particular, something he was keen to continue to build upon.

While Paquin said he was questioning the DEC’s rationale, Trustee Ken McGowan said he was confident the DEC had the right reasons in mind for ending the program.

“I work pretty close with the DEC

The program operated for roughly 40 years thanks to the St. Lawrence Valley Sportsman’s Club and the DEC

“an avid outdoorsman,” weighed in as well.

According to Hardy, his conversations with DEC officials such as Region 6 fisheries manager Jana Lantry painted a totally different picture.

“I can tell you that Friday I had a 45-minute conversation with Jana. I would highly recommend that you speak to them before you make decisions on this resolution. You would be amazed at some of the opportunities that are there for these organizations,” he said.

Hardy said there “are two sides to every story” and felt there were “wonderful opportunities for the fisheries and ecosystem in the environment here.” He said the ecosystem had bounced back and the figures from the DEC supported that notion. “You would be amazed at what has been accomplished.”

In the end, Paquin and trustees opted to table the resolution to allow for further investigation into the matter and to speak with DEC officials about their findings as well.

WRIGHT..

Community loses kind leader

Ogdensburg Boys and Girls Club, Ogdensburg Garden Club, the Hepburn Auxiliary, Zonta, Frederic Remington Art Museum, Canisius College Trustees, Ringling College Of Art and Design Trustees, OFA Band Boosters, Odyssey of the Mind, Ogdensburg Seaway Festival, Clintons Ditch Cooperative Board of Directors, and the Sensational Seventies Reunion, her obituary notes.

Ogdensburg Mayor Tooley offered appreciation for Wright and condolences for her family in a public statement released Thursday.

“It is with much sadness that I learned today of the passing on March 25 of Bonnie Wright. During her lifetime Bonnie was a prominent leader in our city who proudly carried on the legacy in many ways of her father, Richard E. Winter,” the mayor wrote.

He said her contributions were many.

“Bonnie’s contributions to civic organizations were many, among them her volunteer work for the Ogdensburg Boys and Girls Club, the Ogdensburg Garden Club, the Hepburn Auxiliary, Zonta, the Frederic Remington Art Museum, OFA Band Boosters, Odyssey of the Mind, Ogdensburg Seaway Festival and the Sensational Seventies Reunion (which so many of us enjoyed in 1979),” the mayor said. “In 2012, and over the next five years, Bonnie and Pepsi-Cola Ogdensburg Bottlers, Inc. made a generous contribution to the City of Ogdensburg that allowed Ogdensburg residents to enjoy the Elsa M. Luksich Municipal Pool free of charge, another example of Bonnie providing opportunities for families to enjoy life in our community.

“On behalf of the City of Ogdensburg, I extend condolences to Bonnie Wright’s family at this time of loss. Citizens of Ogdensburg and the North Country truly benefited from Bonnie’s life in our city,” he wrote.

CORRECTIONS...

State will release prisoners early — or because it’s April Fool’s Day — will be shocked to learn that it’s true after all. The Governor is actually planning to release convicted felons back into our communities because there aren’t enough officers to guard them,” Conservative Party Chairman Gerard Kassar said.

“It’s hard to overstate how badly Governor Hochul and her progressive colleagues in Albany have screwed up New York’s criminal justice system. They turned the greatest crime-fighting state in America into a national laughing-stock in a single generation. Progressivism at its finest,” he continued.

State Senator Dan Stec Las lambasted state officials for the move, saying a rhetorical question he asked Martuscello has come to light.

“During a budget hearing earlier this year, I rhetorically asked Commissioner Martuscello about his memo stating that 70 percent staffing is the new fully staffed and asked if DOCCS planned to just eliminate 30 percent of the penal code and 30 percent of sentences to make that work. Apparently, he took that literally because that’s exactly what he plans to do. Instead of increasing officer enrollment by eliminating the governor’s insane employment ban on fired COs and addressing prison safety, DOCCS is simply going to release convicted felons early,” he said.

Stec said the move was a “slap in the face to correction officers.”

“This move is a slap in the face to correction officers, who went on strike for 22 days to call for better conditions, and to all law-abiding New Yorkers. It’s more clear than ever that DOC-CS isn’t run by Commissioner Martuscello or Governor Hochul; it’s being run by the inmates and radical, pro-criminal social justice advocates.”

The strikes came on the heels of reports that several corrections officers were exposed to fentanyl and had to be treated with Narcan. Not long after corrections officers began to call for safer working conditions and a repeal of the HALT act, which limits the use of segregated confinement.

Corrections officers said the HALT act has created a dangerous environment for them and inmates alike.

At the core of the strike was an argument for safer working conditions, with officers demanding body scanners and mail scanners, among other things.

Staffing numbers were also a talking point, with state officials setting a benchmark of 85% of officers returning to work to enact the deal. That figure fell short.

A major sticking point in the negotiations appeared to center around health care.

The state said it intended to follow through on those initiatives despite failing to meet the threshold, but offered no room for resolution for the more than 2,000 corrections officers who did not return to work.

Martuscello said that termination letters were already issued and that the campaign to hire corrections officers would begin soon.

In the meantime, he said National Guard members will continue to supplement the workforce.

In return the union agreed to withdraw a lawsuit it initiated regarding healthcare benefits.

comments noting Boutique’s track record of good service at Massena,” U.S. DOT officials wrote.

“As between the proposals of Boutique and Cape Air, the Department finds that, although Cape Air has presented a competitive bid, Boutique’s proposal better satisfies the statutory factors. Boutique has served Massena reliably for more than eight years, and, while other EAS communities have claimed that Boutique’s reliability has been inconsistent in recent years,4 in this particular air carrier selection case, Boutique has demonstrated its reliability in providing scheduled air service at Massena,” U.S. DOT officials wrote in their decision.

Compensation was also a consideration, though U.S. DOT officials said the figures between Cape Air and Boutique were relatively similar.

“In addition, while the Department is required to consider the total compensation proposed by the air carrier, the statute does not require the Department to select the least expensive air service proposal. In this case, the total compensation proposed by Boutique is similar to the total compensation proposed by Cape Air, and both are reasonable for the levels of service proposed,” they wrote.

They also praised Boutique’s interline arrangements with American Airlines and United Airlines as a deciding factor as well.

The contract, which runs from April 1, 2025 through March 31, 2028 will continue an established service that town officials have called “a big success for Massena.”

The eight to nine passenger Pilatus PC-12 aircraft have proven popular, with hundreds of passengers utilizing the air service each month since Boutique began offering flights from Massena to Boston in 2017 when they won the EAS contract over Cape Air.

Boutique boasts a 98% controllable flight completion rate overall, with a 99.82% controllable completion rate over nearly 5,000 scheduled flights in the last 12 months, according to officials.

Boutique officials say they intend to invest at least $50,000 in local marketing as well.

Officials say they also have an interline agreement with American Airlines as of August. 7, 2019 which allows passengers to book flights through United.com and AA.com to connect to any United or American flight.

The airline has also worked to develop “effective marketing distribution channels with a reservation system that connects to all primary Global Distribution Systems (GDSs), allowing travel agents access to our flight inventory.”

Boutique can also be found on major Online Travel Agencies (OTAs), including Expedia, Travelocity, Priceline, and Orbitz.

Boutique has also been a welcome addition to the local community, town officials said, as they have supported a number of initiatives in recent years.

Town officials say they are excited to continue the established relationship with Boutique Air for the next three years.

FLIGHTS...

Massena will keep Boston flights

Boutique will be subsidized $5,756,644 for the first year, $6,044,477 for the second year and $6,225,811 for the third year.

In the end, Boutique beat out multiple bids from Cape Air and Contour Airlines.

Cape Air had proposed flights to Boston and Albany each week, while Contour had proposed 12 weekly flights to Philadelphia.

According to U.S. DOT officials, Cape Air’s proposal met some of the selection factors, however limited support in the numerous community comments submitted to the DOT were a major factor.

Of note, many residents said they preferred the pressurized aircraft offered by Boutique when compared to Cape Air’s unpressurized Tecnam aircraft, U.S. DOT officials wrote.

Though town officials said they were impressed with each bid proposal, they officially backed the Boutique bid in February and sent the recommendation to U.S. DOT officials to continue with Boutique.

Numerous town and village residents also weighed in on the proposal, with a majority commenting it was their hope service would continue with Boutique.

“In addition, with regard to subsection 41733(c)(1)(C), the Massena community strongly supports Boutique’s proposal. The Department received dozens of

Lisbon man says "hands off" in poem

Hands off Gaza, Palestinians deserve a homeland as do all people.

They don't need or want another Trump steeple. Hands Off Greenland, Land of ice and snow they are not for sale; To anyone including a rich white male. Hands Off Canada, A century of friendship and mutual cooperation can not be undone by your greedy fascination. Hands Off Medicare and Social Security

Instituted to help the elderly you promised no cuts! But to make the one percent richer you would kick them in the guts. Hands Off Medicaid Established to aid the needy, those less fortunate than you. But you don't see them as human As you lie and squirm in your pew!

Hands Off the V.A. You call us "losers and suckers" then ask for our votes.

We defend the Constitution, Not you; until Taps last notes. Hands Off the F.B.I.

They were doing their jobs investigating your crime. The law of the land will prevail and you will do hard time.

Hands Off the Department of Education

It defends the disabled and the oppressed those who need help to fight the strong.

You say the States can do this as well

But as with most things you are wrong.

Hands Off our Nature Preserves So little is left of our precious lands;

coal, oil & gases add to pollution. Drilling & digging does so much damage;

when clearly renewable energy is the solution. Hands Off the E.P.A.

The EPA protects all of us the air we breathe and the water we drink.

For decades they have fought for us all without them we will be on the brink.

So hands off! Social conscious makes Americans Great.

It is what the world admires about us.

But what you are doing now leaves good Americans in disgust.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION: Higher fuel costs throughout St. Lawrence County when compared to neighboring counties has drawn the ire of consumers, something legislators have sought to address with the Attorney General's office. According to County Attorney

Steve Button, state officials supplied his office with a report of their findings after conducting an initial investigation into higher gas prices in St. Lawrence County. How much do you typically spend on gas per week

Ogdensburg softball set for season

Ogdensburg Free Academy pitcher Zoe Williams hurls a pitch toward home during a recent practice inside the Golden Dome. Ogdensburg softball is scheduled to open their season Monday, April 7, against St. Lawrence Central.

Former OFA basketball coach to be inducted in BCANY Hall of Fame

OGDENSBURG -- Former Ogdensburg Free Academy basketball coach, Mark Henry, will be inducted as a 2025 Basketball Coaches Association of New York (BCANY) Hall of Fame honoree. Coach Henry will be honored at the BCANY Hall of Fame Induction Brunch on Sunday, Apr. 13, 2025 at the Cool Insurers Arena – previously known as the Glens Falls Civic Center. Working with many outstanding student-athletes at OFA as the head varsity basketball coach for both the boys and girls program, his guidance and leadership led to many incredible teams and numerous Section X Championships as well as several excellent showings in the New York State Public High School Athletic Association (NYSPHSAA) Championships. “Coach Henry, the most deserving candidate for induction into the New York State Basketball Hall of Fame, was my high school basketball coach. Under his guidance, he helped build a positive culture around OFA girls basketball,” former student-athlete Shannon Lafave shared. “One of my most cherished memories is winning three consecutive class B championships. As a student-athlete, Coach Henry challenged me both on and off the court. His remarkable ability to motivate his players and establish a lifelong bond with them is truly exceptional. Our relationship has evolved from a player-coach dynamic to a mentorship and friendship. As a current coach, I frequently seek his guidance and advice for myself and my team. On special occasions, he visits our practices to assist with drills.” “I’m truly honored to be joining the incredible coaches in the BCANY Hall of Fame. It’s humbling to be recognized alongside so many outstanding individuals,” honoree Mark Henry said. “For 17 years, I had the privilege of coaching both boys and girls basketball at OFA, and I was lucky to work with some incredible student-athletes who gave everything they had—on and off the court. This recognition is just as much a reflection of their hard work and dedication as it is mine. I’m grateful to the administration for their constant support, to the amazing assistant coaches who played such a huge role in our success, and to Steve LaRose for his dedication to the AAU program during my time coaching. To the OFA community—your passion and support are second to none. Seeing a sea of royal blue, not just at home games but filling Maxcy Hall, the Glens Falls Civic Center, and everywhere in between, is something I’ll never forget. You made every moment even more special. Thank you all for being part of this journey!” “Everyone at OFA is thrilled to

Trout season underway in SLC

April 1 start of the spring trout fishing season in St. Lawrence County. Department of Environmental Conservation’s (DEC) spring stocking includes nearly 1.9 million trout in waters statewide, enhancing the diversity of fishing opportunities available to anglers across the state. DEC trout stocking is in full swing with 1,873,980 catchable-size brook, brown, and rainbow trout stocked in ponds and streams across the state from mid-March through early June. March 2025 whirling disease response The popular Trout Stream Fishing Map on DECinfo Locator allows anglers to view trout stream reaches, color-coded by management category, as well as fishing access associated with those reaches. Links to the Trout Stream Fishing Map and a User Guide are available on DEC’s website.

Anglers can also use smart phones to find trout fishing opportunities around the state by accessing the Tackle Box feature in DEC’s HuntFishNY app. The Tackle Box provides one-stop-shopping for information on access sites, stocking, regulations and more. Information on how to download the app can be found on DEC’s website at <https://dec.ny.gov/get-involved/huntfishny-mobile-app>. Anglers are encouraged to check out these valuable resources when planning their next fishing trip. A digital version of the new guide is available to download on DEC’s website. Hard copies of the guide are available wherever sporting licenses are sold. For locations visit DEC’s website. To help make fishing more affordable and help inspire the next generation of anglers, DEC partners with many libraries across the state to provide a free fishing rod lending program. In addition to borrowing a book, library patrons can sign out a fishing rod. This affordable opportunity for people to try fishing before purchasing their own gear supports Governor Hochul’s “Get Offline, Get Outside” initiative, to promote physical and mental health by helping New York’s kids and families to put down their phones and computers, take a break from social media, and enjoy recreation and outdoor social gatherings. DEC offers a host of resources for those interested in getting started in fishing. The I FISH NY Beginners’ Guide to Freshwater Fishing provides information on everything from rigging up a fishing rod, to identifying catch, and understanding fishing regulations. There’s also a video series on the DEC’s YouTube channel that complements the Beginners’ Guide.

SLC mental health program to benefit from court navigators

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

CANTON -- The county Community Services Department has received funding from New York State to add two mental health court navigators to the system, but filling those roles may prove challenging. Legislators approved a resolution to accept the funds, $199,677, for the two positions.

Community Services Director Jay Ullrich confirmed to legislators the funds would cover the salaries and benefits for the two roles for one year, allowing the county to hire two individuals to be embedded in the County Court and Ogdensburg City Court.

Ullrich said the two staffers will handle a range of tasks, including evaluations and efforts to address “barriers to mental health treatment.”

He said navigators will work with the courts and interface closely with community partners to “foster the connection to behavioral health services.”

According to Ullrich, the needs of the new program will best be met by creating case manager positions.

He said those hired will play a key role in ensuring persons in the criminal justice system make their court dates, eliminating a number of pitfalls that occur for individuals suffering with mental health issues.

As for the status of the funding, Legislator Joseph Lightfoot raised concerns about the longevity of the program when he asked if the funding was a guarantee.

“Is this funding for a year, two years, what’s the length of the funding?” he asked.

Ullrich said he was informed the funding would be annually recurring unless “something catastrophic happens with the NYS budget.”

But Lightfoot still raised concerns, saying it appeared the funding was “based on the goodwill of the state of New York.”

Ullrich said that was true, that the funding was based on state officials’ efforts to keep the program funded in the future.

If funding is reduced or eliminated, the positions will not become county-funded without additional board of legislators approval, according to county officials.

As for who is most likely to receive aid through the navigators, Legislator Ben Hull wanted to know if it would be based on a first-come-first-served basis or whether it would be prioritization based on need.

Ullrich said the department did not have enough experience with the two courts yet to make a determination, commenting that his office and the navigators would try to work closely with the various offices involved, including the District Attorney’s Office, Public Defender, Indignant Defense to ensure individuals who needed assistance would receive it. The measure now moves to the full board for final approval in April.

Massena Hospital internist recognized for Doctors’ Day

Editor’s Note: In celebration of Doctors’ Day on March 30, Rochester Regional Health’s St. Lawrence Region is highlighting Internist Nimesh Desai, MD, for living the system’s “Rooted In Community” value.

MASSENA – Massena Hospital Internist Nimesh Desai, MD, has an ever-present smile that has been lighting up this community for over 30 years.

Dr. Desai began his private medical practice in Massena in 1991, at which time he also received privileges to practice at Massena (Memorial) Hospital. He and fellow Internal Medicine provider Jayant Jhaveri, MD, created the St. Lawrence Internists joint practice in 2001, and they have been members of Rochester Regional Health’s St. Lawrence Region Massena Hospital since January 1, 2020.

As a field of medicine that addresses the needs of adult patients, Dr. Desai noted Internal Medicine was where he wanted to focus.

“For many patients, their primary care providers are the initial point of contact for many health-related issues. Knowing there was a need for Internal Medicine doctors in the area, I felt practicing in Massena would give me an excellent opportunity to serve the community,” he said.

“I have several families with multiple generations of family members who come to our practice, which is a testament of trust. Patients are looking for honest guidance for their medical care, which I feel I attempt to do,” Dr. Desai added.

As a rural area, towns and villages in the North Country have a number of residents who have unmet healthcare needs which became evident to Dr. Desai and the late Sateesh Goswami, MD.

“This need led us to think about starting a free clinic in Massena for uninsured adults,” he said. “We initiated the efforts to get this venture off the ground and with the help of so many volunteers and a lot of help from Massena Memorial Hospital, we opened our Free Clinic doors in 1998. The clinic is still in operation today, and we continue to try and provide free medical care to the community.

“The North Country is a great place with wonderful people who appreciate the medical care pro-

Stroke stats tell deadly story

Stroke is one of the leading causes of death across the globe.

The World Health Organization found that stroke was responsible for the third most deaths in 2021. Notably, the WHO analysis found that stroke was the leading cause of death in upper-middle-income countries.

The threat posed by stroke is indeed significant, and McLaren Health Care cites the following statistics in an effort to raise awareness of this potentially deadly but often preventable disease.

- 15 million people have a stroke across the globe each year
- Three in five, or 60 percent, of strokes occur in people under age 70
- 16 percent, or roughly one in six, of strokes occur in people under age 50
- Five million people die from stroke each year
- 80% of strokes are preventable

vided locally. As a physician, I feel I get a lot of respect and love from my patients and the residents,” Dr.

Desai said. “It has been a pleasure and a privilege to be a part of this wonderful community.”
