Milford High School presented its one-act play "Dirt" on Dec. 13. The play was a tale of a Texas family enduring hardship during the 1930s depression and dust bowl. In this scene, Sophia Birch, portraying Edith Loftin, prays for her son, Gary Ray, played by Chance Stutzman, as he lies on the table after he stops breathing. Those aiding Gary Ray on the table are Trace Rowland as Lloyd Loftin, Ayden Shook as Unex, Zack Parra as Mike and Griffin Anderson as Cuffy. In the background are chorus members posing in tableaus depicting the dust bowl, Ella Hostetler, Ashlyn Schildt, Allyson Taylor and Addison Sample.

Trace Rowland as Lloyd Loftin, the father of the Loftin family, struggles with the possibility of losing their cotton farm due to the drought.

Brecken Yoder (front) playing Alvis Loftin, who suffers from schizophrenia, struggles with two chorus members (Gavin Piening and Logan Hershberger).
