

Springtown bull rider stars as an extra in the upcoming '1883' TV series

BY MADELYN EDWARDS
madelyn@azlenews.net

The Fort Worth Stockyards is Matthew De La Cruz's favorite place. The Springtown bull rider likes to show tourists around and get bull-riding tips from professionals.

But that's not what De La Cruz was doing in the Stockyards for a few days in early September. Instead, he got the opportunity to play an extra in the new TV show "1883," a spinoff of the ranch-family drama "Yellowstone."

De La Cruz was signed up for the opportunity by his sisters and mother, to his surprise.

"One day, my sisters said they were going to sign me up, and I thought they were just joking," he said. "I didn't think I was gonna get it, but the next day, (they) told me, 'Get ready, you're gonna be on (the 'Yellowstone' spinoff),' and I was like, wow, I'm super blessed y'all signed me up. I was just very thankful."

De La Cruz filmed for three days, including one day where filming started at 3 a.m. and ended at 4 a.m. the following day.

"We had to rehearse it over and over about six times each little set that was only like a minute long," he said, adding that just filming short sections took hours.

De La Cruz's scenes included serving soup and being in a scene in which "1883" star Tim McGraw's wallet was taken. Despite the long hours, he said the experience was "worth it."

"Just being on set and just being in the clothes, it was like, wow, people are going to see me in a couple months on TV," De La Cruz said. "(It's) a lot to wake up to."

De La Cruz recalled sharing the set with stars Sam Elliott, Faith Hill and, most memorably, McGraw.

"I didn't know he was Tim McGraw until the second day," he said. "We were all messing with Multiple dads bring fun to Friday night football

One of the best football players to ever tote a pigskin for the Springtown Porcupines will graduate in May and head out into the world. Such is life when following a high school football team – the faces keep changing.

Matt "Mr. Everything" Lockard earned his nickname by being a topnotch runner, receiver, defender, punter, kicker and returner during his tenure at Springtown High. After graduation, he will leave the team and create an opportunity for a new kid to come along and become a star athlete.

Lockard's father, Micheal, is doing the same. For four years, he has volunteered to inflate the giant mascot that players run through to begin the first and third quarters. He and other dads meet at the field long before games begin, lay out the inflatable mascot in the end

Christmas parade at Springtown on the Square

BY MADELYN EDWARDS
madelyn@azlenews.net

Springtown-area residents are invited to come out to the square for the annual Christmas parade and tree lighting during the weekend after Thanksgiving.

The parade and tree lighting will take place at 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 28. As of Monday, about 17-20 entries for floats have been submitted from local families, Stars and Strides Stables Therapeutic Riding Center and city services like Springtown's public works and police department, City Secretary and Downtown Coordinator Denise Taylor said.

And, of course, Santa Claus and the Grinch are expected to be in attendance, Taylor said.

The deadline to register a float in the parade is on Tuesday, Nov. 23. The application is available on the city's website and can be turned in via email or dropped off at Springtown City Hall, Taylor said.

The parade will start at Spring-

Songs of Christmas Concert to bring on holiday spirit

BY JESSICA MCKINNEY
azlereporter@azlenews.net

Azle's own John Webster, along with his brother Don Webster, will be bringing the Christmas spirit to Springtown on Dec. 4 with a special concert featuring "Songs of Christmas." Joining the duo will be Chris Golden and Elle Gray.

The Webster Brothers have become well known around the country for their Southern and country gospel music, performing original songs as well as classics that they grew up singing in church.

"I started to play and sing at around 12 years old," John Webster said.

Webster and his younger brother sang together as kids, with Webster sitting Don up on the piano bench with him as he played.

It wasn't until the early '90s that Webster began performing professionally, incorporating singing into his travels and ministry around the world.

Today, The Webster Brothers have a weekly television show in Dallas and a Facebook Live event every Friday, the Noon Gospel Hour.

What got them started with their performances was visiting their mother in the nursing home. They continue to visit senior centers and nursing homes to perform even after her death.

"We continue to sing at senior citizen centers, and many, sometimes two to three times a week, many assisted living communities throughout the Metroplex," John Webster said. "The love for the music, it is a ministry to us. When we get to go sing to the seniors, it's like going back home. It's like Mama's still there or Grandmama's still there. They're different people but it just makes you feel like you're with your loved ones again."

The performers will come together from 2 to 4 p.m. at the R & R Event Center at 3605 E. Hwy. 199 in Springtown to perform songs that will help kick off the holiday season.

Golden is the son of William Golden of the Oak Ridge Boys.

"(Chris) is a very great songwriter and entertainer extraordinaire," John Webster said. "I'm telling you he will absolutely get you going in the Christmas spirit. He's such a real person. He's got such a great heart. He loves the Lord, he loves people. You can't help but be drawn into whatever song he's singing ... and it will really speak to you."

Webster says that no one will want to miss this special Christmas performance. Tickets are $15. For more information, call 817-774-3272.

Springtown amends permitting fees for solar panels and swimming pools

BY MADELYN EDWARDS
madelyn@azlenews.net

Springtown City Council approved readjusting fees for permitting private swimming pools, solar panels and site plan reviews during its last city council meeting.

“There were certain fees that were not meeting the cost of what we have to put into it,” City Administrator David Miller said during the meeting.

The permit fee for private swimming pools was $50 but was increased to $250 for above-ground pools and $500 for in-ground pools.

Miller said above-ground pools usually must be inspected two to three times before water can be put into it, while in-ground pools are inspected four to five times.

“Fifty dollars just does not cover our cost to have those inspections,” Miller said.

The permit fee for solar panels was simplified, according to Miller, by charging a flat fee of $225 for systems under 1,000 square feet and $350 for systems with more than 1,000 square feet. The previous solar panel permit fee was calculated using a combination of a building and electrical fees.

The council also approved adding a $500 fee for engineering reviews of site plans for new developments that don’t go through the zoning process, Miller said.

The changes have gone into effect but did not affect pending applications for swimming pools, solar panels or site plan reviews.

According to the agenda document, these fees are comparable to what neighboring cities charge.

town Elementary School and proceed north on Avenue D before making a left on Fifth Street. From there, the parade will go down North Main Street, turn on First Street, pass by the square and finish at Springtown Elementary.

Springtown City Council and Mayor Greg Hood will be judging the floats this year and will award prizes to first-, second- and third-place winners, Taylor said.

After the parade, people are invited to the square for the Christmas tree lighting, and Santa will be available to take pictures with children.

Last year, the Christmas parade had to be done differently because of gathering restrictions amid the COVID-19 pandemic. Instead of people watching a parade go by, the parade floats were parked on the square while people viewed them from their vehicles, Taylor said.

In Springtown, the parade and tree lighting kick off to the holiday season, Taylor said.

“It’s just a time to come and be with fellow citizens and enjoy some of the simple things: a tree lighting, some snow, seeing Santa, having pictures made with Santa,” she said. “It’s just a slow, easy time. We’ve always gotten really great reviews about our parade and the tree lighting, so I hope it continues.”

Texas Commission on Environmental Quality

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY DECISION FOR TPDES PERMIT FOR MUNICIPAL WASTEWATER

REVISED

PERMIT NO. WQ0010649001

APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY DECISION. City of Springtown, P.O. Box 444, Springtown, Texas 76082, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for a renewal of Texas Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (TPDES) Permit No. WQ0010649001, which authorizes the discharge of treated domestic wastewater at a daily average flow not to exceed 480,000 gallons per day. TCEQ received this application on May 19, 2021.

The facility is located at 1361 Walnut Creek Drive, Springtown, in Parker County, Texas 76082. The treated effluent is discharged to Walnut Creek, thence to Eagle Mountain Reservoir in Segment No. 0809 of the Trinity River Basin. The unclassified receiving water use is high aquatic life use for Walnut Creek. The designated uses for Segment No. 0809 are primary contact recreation, public water supply, and high aquatic life use. All determinations are preliminary and subject to additional review and/or revisions. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility’s general location is provided as a public courtesy and is not part of the application or notice. For the exact location, refer to the application. <https://tceq.maps.arcgis.com/apps/webappviewer/index.html?id=db5bac44af-bc468bbddd36f816825of&marker=-97.655178%2C32.968852&level=12>

The TCEQ Executive Director has completed the technical review of the application and prepared a draft permit. The draft permit, if approved, would establish the conditions under which the facility must operate. The Executive Director has made a preliminary decision that this permit, if issued, meets all statutory and regulatory requirements. The permit application, Executive Director’s preliminary decision, and draft permit are available for viewing and copying at Springtown City Hall, 102 East 2nd Street, Springtown, Texas.

PUBLIC COMMENT / PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting about this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ holds a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting a contested case hearing or reconsideration of the Executive Director’s decision. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in a state district court.

TO REQUEST A CONTESTED CASE HEARING, YOU MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING ITEMS IN YOUR REQUEST: your name, address, phone number; applicant’s name and proposed permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the proposed facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; a list of all disputed issues of fact that you submit during the comment period; and the statement “[I/we] request a contested case hearing.” If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group’s representative for receiving future correspondence; identify by name and physical address an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the proposed facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member’s location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group’s purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

The Commission may only grant a request for a contested case hearing on issues the requestor submitted in their timely comments that were not subsequently withdrawn. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact or mixed questions of fact and law relating to relevant and material water quality concerns submitted during the comment period. TCEQ may act on an application to renew a permit for discharge of wastewater without providing an opportunity for a contested case hearing if certain criteria are met.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ACTION. The Executive Director may issue final approval of the application unless a timely contested case hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed. If a timely hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed, the Executive Director will not issue final approval of the permit and will forward the application and request to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

MAILING LIST. If you submit public comments, a request for a contested case hearing or a reconsideration of the Executive Director’s decision, you will be added to the mailing list for this specific application to receive future public notices mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk. In addition, you may request to be placed on: (1) the permanent mailing list for a specific applicant name and permit number; and/or (2) the mailing list for a specific county. If you wish to be placed on the permanent and/or the county mailing list, clearly specify which list(s) and send your request to TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

All written public comments and public meeting requests must be submitted to the Office of the Chief Clerk, MC 105, Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, TX 78711-3087 or electronically at www14.tceq.texas.gov/epic/eComment/ within 30 days from the date of newspaper publication of this notice.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE ONLINE. For details about the status of the application, visit the Commissioners’ Integrated Database at www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/cid. Search the database using the permit number for this application, which is provided at the top of this notice.

AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION. Public comments and requests must be submitted either electronically at www14.tceq.texas.gov/epic/eComment/, or in writing to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. Any personal information you submit to the TCEQ will become part of the agency’s record; this includes email addresses. For more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call the TCEQ Public Education Program, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040 or visit their website at www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/pep. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040.

him – ‘Come on, Tim; come on, Tim’ – because he kept on messing up.”

McGraw was “pretty cool,” De La Cruz said, and McGraw played around on set by throwing baseballs around.

“The baseball rolled toward me, and I got to throw it at him,” De La Cruz said.

The most challenging part of filming was having to wear masks on set and then having to take it off before filming, plus the layers of costumes he had to wear in the hot weather.

De La Cruz said he really enjoyed meeting new people on set, particularly three ropers who reminded him of characters from the movie “8 Seconds,” which is about bull rider Lane Frost and is one of De La Cruz’s favorite films.

“From the first day, you didn’t know no one until you meet a couple of people, and then you hang out with them the second day, and then the third day, it was really fun, (and) hard leaving them because you didn’t know if (would get) to see them again,” he said.

De La Cruz doesn’t reckon that he’ll stay in the film-making business, but he said the experience was good. He plans to continue bull riding after he finishes school by getting a Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association pro-card and then go to the Professional Bull Riders organization.

Bull riding can be a dangerous sport, but De La Cruz said being scared isn’t an option if he wants to stay on the bull for the full 8 seconds.

“I just look at the bulls, and I say, ‘I can ride him, I can ride him, I can overcome him, I can overpower him,’” he said. “That’s what you got to do really. And then I manage to do it.”

zone, set up a generator to inflate it and prepare a utility vehicle stocked with train horns and powerful speakers.

Their work is designed to show love for the football team.

"We blow the train horns at the touchdowns," Micheal Lockard said. "We play music. We get them pumped up and ready for the game."

Lockard hauls the customized utility vehicle to games on a trailer behind his pickup. Another volunteer dad, Chris Fox, has "done more work than anybody getting it ready," Lockard said.

The train horns are real – and real loud.

"It gets everybody riled up, especially at a home game," Lockard said. "With all the houses right there beside it, everybody knows when you make a touchdown in Springtown."

Fox, a member of the Springtown Athletic Booster

Club, has a son on the football team and a daughter on the cheerleading squad. He shows support for his kids by operating the UTV during games, parades, festivals and other events.

"It's good for the kids," he said.

It's labor intensive for the dads. Travel is required for away games.

"A lot of travel in the playoffs," Lockard said. "We love it. Wouldn't have it any other way."

Maintenance on the utility vehicle is a constant. The dads replaced the brakes recently, and the loud music can be tough on equipment.

"We've blown out amplifiers, equalizers, subwoofers and speakers," Fox said.

Once his son graduates, Lockard will relinquish his volunteer duties to other dads, such as Fox and Drew Doggett. Matt Lockard plans to continue playing football in college, and Micheal wants to be free to attend those games.

New volunteers might discover that inflating a giant porcupine before football games and blasting train horns whenever someone scores is a heck of a lot of fun.

"There is nothing like being down here on the field," Lockard said. "You get to be down here on the field and watch your son and take some pictures and do the run through. It's special."

In a few years, expect to see Lockard's face back down on the field with the dads again. His youngest son, Qualyn, will turn high school age in a few years.

"He's in Pee Wee," Lockard said. "I've got a few years off to go watch Matt -- hopefully -- play some college ball somewhere."

Then, it's back to Pojo Land for more train horns, loud music, smoke machines and the giant orange Porcupine.

Springtown High School thespians, honor society wrap up food drive with over 1,000 food items

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The Springtown High School Thespian Troupe 1494 and National Honor Society finished up their food drive by bringing in more than 1,087 food items for Neighbor to Neighbors food pantry.

Thespians and honor society students held a food drive on Halloween and continued collecting items at the high school among the advisory period classes to see which class could collect the most nonperishable food items.

Christopher Walker's fifth period class collected the most items with 341 cans. In second place was Rhonda Seabourn's class with 271 cans, and Carla Kerske's fifth period class came in third with 155 cans.

Springtown High School's effort to collect food was part of the International Thespian Society's Trick or Treat so Kids Can Eat food drive. The drive is a national community service program for society member schools to collect canned and dry goods for local charities and food banks. Since the campaign began in 2003, Thespian troupes have collected and distributed over 4 million pounds of food to help their neighbors in need.

Reno agreement with Pelican Bay still in the works

BY MADELYN EDWARDS
madelyn@azlenews.net

Reno City Council did not act on the memorandum of understanding for an interlocal agreement between the city and Pelican Bay regarding police services during the council meeting on Monday.

Currently, Reno does not have any police officers employed in the city since the officers resigned, and the city separated with the police chief. Law enforcement needs are being covered mainly by the Parker County Sheriff's Office while Pelican Bay is assisting with courtesy patrol, Mayor Sam White said.

The city council finalized the separation agreement with Chief Tony Simmons last month. Simmons was the only police employee in Reno after police officers started resigning around September.

Council members went into closed session for about 30 minutes to discuss the matters further. After the meeting, White said Pelican Bay city officials need more time to consider the agreement, and they are currently investigating liabilities.

White said the first step in the interlocal agreement would be to move forward with a memorandum of understanding, a document that details a mutual agreement between parties.

Also in the meeting, the council did not act on renewing a contract with Springtown for police dispatch services. The contract is currently expired, and 911 calls are running through Parker County Sheriff's Office and dispatched accordingly, which has been happening for about the past three weeks, White said.

"We have not done anything yet because (Pelican Bay) Chief (Scott) Elsner and I are talking to Parker County, Sansom Park, (with the) possibility of Azle," White said in the meeting. "We're trying to find who gives us the best service for the best price."

White said the current contract with Springtown costs the city $45,000-$48,000 while one with Parker County could cost around $100,000. He expects to have a "better answer" in about a week and a half.

Resident Meredith Hull criticized services with Springtown as either unresponsive or going to the wrong address.

Council member Jeff Davis brought up a drag racing issue in Reno that could have badly injured his senior neighbor who was coming out of her driveway. He described Reno Road as becoming a "racetrack" and said this activity has been happening every evening during the past few months among drivers of the same vehicles driving at high speeds.

"It's happening, and we need to be very, very careful," Davis said. "It's gotta stop. This is not a race-track."

White said that he would contact Parker County Sheriff Russ Authier about the drag racing issue.

The council is slated to meet again at 7 p.m. on Thursday to discuss appointing an interim police chief.

ON FISHING

Start thinking cold — and make sure you are prepared for it

If you think it's cold when you come out of your home, you know it will be even colder on the water or out in the field. At least it always seems that way. It is definitely colder as you run down the lake with no wind protection. Remember to dress appropriately for the conditions, as your day will become miserable the longer you are in the elements.

When you get on the water, even temperatures in the 50s and 60s will be cold. When you are in the elements for several hours, the conditions will wear on you. Over prepare as you can always take off layers if you don't need them. The extra preparation is time well spent.

Though many folks do not venture out in the cold, this is one of my favorite times to fish as I have alluded to in many articles. Many are out in the field hunting as well. The cold weather fishing bite on artificials is some of the best action of the year and hunting season is upon us.

Insulated coveralls with insulated boots and gloves are a necessity on those cold days. Your extremities are usually the first to get cold. Protection against the cold wind for your body and your face is necessary. The cold air rushing in your sinuses can bring on pain and headaches. Some fishermen will wear a shielded helmet to protect their head and face from the wind. Some type of headgear or hood should be used, as this is where you lose a large percentage of the heat from your body.

Cold weather will also stress your equipment and/or boat. It is a good time now to service your equipment before the first freeze. For outboard boat owners, servicing your lower unit is critical. As you well know, water freezing in the lower unit is not good for the seals. Remember also to lower your motor so that any trapped water in the prop/exhaust area runs out. This is a good idea year around. Plastic parts and hoses become more brittle when real cold. If you have an inboard or inboard/outboard you must not forget to drain those areas that hold cooling water as damage could occur if the water freezes.

Extreme cold can put ice on the boat on the fishing decks just from spray of water on the lake. Special precautions should be taken because of the slip hazard. You definitely do not want to fall into the cold water with your entire heavy winter gear and boots on. This could potentially take someone's life. Make every move a slow thought-out process, which is good, safe common sense on any slippery surface.

Your hands will get real cold real quick if you get them wet when landing a fish or baiting a hook. This can be avoided with a good set of gloves, but handling the equipment with gloves can be difficult. A good set of neoprene gloves may make your life a little easier. Insulated waterproof hunting gloves are my favorite. Neoprene does not hold the heat in as well as good hunting gloves do, in my opinion. You may have to take them off to tie your knots, but you should be able to fish with them on.

If you are planning on doing some fishing this winter, be prepared. Old man winter has not arrived yet, but he is sure to show his face soon. Bring a thermos with a warm beverage and don't forget hand warmers as they are fairly inexpensive. Your fishing trip will definitely be more enjoyable if you are comfortable.

What an amazing OpportUNITY!

"In essentials unity, in non-essentials liberty, in all things charity."

I heard that quote referenced in a sermon this morning. It is often attributed to Augustine (354-430), John Wesley (1703-1791), and a number of other theologians in between. (This morning's speaker attributed it to Augustine).

According to some historians, the saying actually first appears in a tract on Christian unity written in 1627 by an otherwise undistinguished German theologian, Rupertus Meldenius, during the bloody Thirty Years War (1618-1648).

This concludes your history lesson for today.

In a circumstance of great irony, I am composing this post while sitting in a Baptist business meeting! (One in which I am mildly interested, but not involved).

When I heard that quote this morning and the assertion that followed it, my pondering brain kicked in.

Here's the assertion: "In unity we have great opportunity."

Almost immediately, I envisioned a word written this way: OpportUNITY.

Here's the truth—there are things that we can ONLY accomplish, if we do them together!

And therein lies part of our problem.

We have a really hard problem with that unity thing.

Maybe it's because we turn every molehill into a mountain to die on. We have made up our minds on every issue and are only willing to listen to those with whom we already agree.

In other words, if you want unity with me you need to agree with me. On everything. Not simply the essentials.

It's all essential because I want a world that conforms to my ideas of what the world should look like.

And if you don't agree, you are an enemy that deserves to be defeated.

By the way, I'm using me as the example because it (1) allows me to make my point with calling anyone out and (2) reminds me that I could be that way apart from the grace of God and an intentional choice to NOT live that way.

Part of the genius of the quote is that it reminds us that there are different circumstances that require different responses.

Some things are essential and on them we need unity.

Now, there is a difference between "unity" and "uniformity." Unity does not mean that we have complete agreement on every point, but that we all agree that the issue requires our attention and cooperation on something that really matters. In other words, we agree that we all need to bring our best to this particular issue because our interests and values overlap.

Some things are non-essential and on them we need to allow for liberty. That is to say that we can give space for different people to approach these situations in different way within their own spheres. We give each other freedom to coexist without the pressure to conform to each other's ideas.

But the key—the secret sauce that makes it all work—is charity in all things.

That is to say that, in every circumstance we treat people the way we would want them to treat us. None of us wants to be attacked, slandered, or marginalized over issues of disagreement. Because we don't want that for us, we refuse to do that to others.

One final thought regarding the source of the quote: if it's true and helpful, it doesn't matter who originally said it.

That's another major part of our struggle—evaluating truth by source rather than content.

We need to remember that truth is true even when it is spoken by the "other side." Falsehood is still falsehood even when it is spoken by "my side."

If we can get our heads around that, we have an amazing opportunity before us.

Be amazing today, my friend.

Subtle things not to be missed in production agriculture

In our last few Ag 101 columns we have visited about the ten ecoregions or vegetational regions of Texas. We discussed the similar characteristics of land areas that cause each of the regions to be divided up as they are. Those similar traits being soil types, topography or lay of the land and climate, all of which figures into which plants, both introduced and native, that are found growing in the region.

A majority of these traits rely on the characteristics of the soil. Which means in the long run Soil is Important, right?

So, here's my sales pitch one more time for taking care of your soil; collect soil samples and have them tested for nutrients present or missing from your soil. The analysis or testing should be done by an approved and recognized soil lab, be careful at this point in making certain that it is a quality lab.

If you have questions about finding a lab or the quality of a lab that you are contemplating using contact your local high school Agricultural Science Teacher or county Agricultural Extension Agent for recommendations.

Long story short, if you are attempting to produce plants then Have Your Soil Tested !! Now is the perfect time to do this. This is one of the wisest financial investments an Agriculturalist can make. It can pay off multiples in the form of plant growth and production. If you are going to invest the money in seed along with the time and effort in planting and harvesting you might as well get all that the plant has to offer genetically.

By Jack DeShazo

Jack DeShazo has decades of experience in the agriculture field.

Proper soil nutrients in the correct ratio can do this. If you find through soil testing that your soil is deficient then you can fix the problem through fertilization. If you decide to not take the soil analysis route and either do nothing or take the advice of an untrained salesperson you are just guessing and buying snake oil, possibly doing more damage than good. Again, soil fertilization recommendations cannot be made accurately without testing. Yes, you have read this in this column before and if I am still writing next year you will see it again, it's that important !! Sermon over !

Now let's visit the regions topic again. We've decided that the soil and climate has an effect on the plants found growing in an area. And the plants growing in an area influences the type of Agriculture going on in the area.

Here's an example; West Texas has a lower precipitation rate and when combined with poorer quality soils lower quality plants are produced. Cattle will have a hard time finding enough nutrition from these plants to do well. So, you tend to find more sheep and goats raised in that area because their nutritional requirements are different from cattle.

Example 2, one of the problems with dairies is excess runoff water containing varying amounts of livestock waste. West Texas and the Panhandle have dryer climates usually with porous water absorbing sandy soils, a deeper aquifer and fewer people to be somehow annoyed by livestock sounds and smells. So, we are seeing more and more of Texas' dairies moving West.

And the final example is the feedlot/feed yard business where cattle are fed out in the production of beef. A majority of the feed grains that are used in milling and mixing feedlot rations are produced in the Panhandle, so why not have the feedlots close to the areas where the feed grains are produced reducing transportation costs ? Also remember that the Panhandle has that dryer climate with water absorbing soil and fewer people to be bothered with the smells and sounds making it an even better choice for the location of the feedlot business.

Agriculture Teachers like everyone else I assume, have many stories that accumulate over the years from their occupational experiences. One Fall my Agriculture teaching partner and I took a busload of students to the Lubbock Farm Show.

We arrived in Lubbock about 10:00 on a Monday night, started unloading students from the bus to check into the hotel. The wind was blowing out of the North of course, bringing with it the aroma of the feedlots. A few of the students started asking what that smell was? We explained that was the smell of Texas Agriculture feeding a hungry nation and world. This was what many teachers refer to as a "teachable moment"!!

We spent nearly 1/2 day traveling on a slow "yellow dog school bus" to Lubbock, 1 1/2 days at the farm show, 1/2 day in Amarillo at the American Quarter Horse Association and more than 1/2 day getting back home. The extra hours on the return trip included a 4 hour layover at a Dairy Queen and the high school gym in Chillicothe waiting for a replacement bus to arrive. I guarantee you those students on that trip learned more about Agriculture along with practical history, writing, math and communications skills than could have possibly been acquired in the classroom back at school in double the amount of time. Extracurricular trips and activities are such an important supplement to the everyday educational experiences of our students !!

By Geneva Woodruff

Frankie is a rescue dog and an emotional support animal for Geneva Woodruff. Woodruff is a retired educator.

Dear Frankie,
My name is Bernadette. My friends call me Bernie. I'm a chicken and live with three siblings. We live cooped up in a crate like the one Buster the puppy wrote to you about in an earlier column.

I'm writing on behalf of my siblings because I'm the oldest and have the most experience with life. My egg cracked 3 days before the others. One of the problems we have is having such a small coop when nature calls. The other problem is several close run-ins with mean neighborhood dogs.

Any advice on how we can deal with either situation would very much be appreciated.

Anxious, Bernadette

Dear Bernie,

Am I to understand that you are using the term cooped up to indicate the four of you live in tight quarters? If that is correct, I'm assuming you guys are living up to your wings in chicken manure.

What do I advise?

Call the Department of Public Health and request an inspection. From what you describe, it sounds like you are living in squalor. You say you have had run-ins with neighborhood dogs. I gather from that statement you are running free at times, and that's where you encounter these dogs?

Before I address the dog issue, I think being out of the crate might be a solution for your nature calls. Doing your business outside should significantly help with your sanitation issue and avoid the need to involve local authorities.

Regarding unsavory canines: What measures have you taken to survey the surrounding area for escape routes? I know you don't fly, but if you flapped your wings, vigorously, it should be sufficient to propel you to a tree branch, a fence, or a high bush.

Your best chance for survival is to get to a place dogs can't reach. Humans have an expression: "I'm running around like a chicken with my head cut off." It appears you may be taking this expression to its max. Are you aware this expression means chickens are airheads who function without a thought for the consequences of their behavior?

Fortunately, one can over-correct instinctive behaviors if they involve life-death issues, like dogs looking for a chicken dinner.

So, here's the plan. When the four of you are out of the crate, one of you has to stand guard, watch for the dogs and call the alarm at the first sighting. That's when all of you have to immediately stop whatever you are doing and head for the coop. Of course, a sentry rotation schedule should be set up, so everyone gets equal time watching and exercising. After all, Fair is fair.

Best, Frankie

Springtown High School Fine Arts Department presents 'Frozen JR'

BY MADELYN EDWARDS

Springtown High School senior Bailey Allen rushed over to sophomore Carolina Williams and hugged her when she found out they would be playing sisters Elsa and Anna in the school's production of "Frozen JR."

"Literally, the second that I found out, I ran up to her and was like, 'We're gonna be sisters!'" Allen said. Williams, who will play Elsa, described how Allen hugged her and jumped around by the news.

Williams and Allen, along with the rest of the cast of about 40 students, are preparing to perform Disney's "Frozen JR." from Wednesday, Dec. 8 through Saturday, Dec. 11. The public will be able to attend the theater production at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10-11, at Springtown High School. The show will also be performed at various school campuses during the school day Wednesday through Friday. The musical is 60-70 minutes long.

Designed for school-aged performers, the musical is based on the 2013 Disney animated movie and the 2018 Broadway adaptation and includes songs like

Springtown eyes Andrews after corralling Canyon

Matt 'Mr. Everything' Lockard ran around, through and over Canyon.

BY JEFF PRINCE
jeff@azlenews.net

The Andrews Mustangs look beatable. The team lost more games than it won this season. It began the season with three straight losses and endured another three-game skid later in the year.

The Mustangs (5-6), though, went 2-1 in district play, made the playoffs in District 2-4A, and face the Springtown Porcupines in the area playoffs on Friday.

Porcupines head coach Brian Hulett is taking nothing for granted. He doesn't care about Andrews' record. He knows they have a solid program and a winning background and will come ready for war.

"They are good – a district champion," Hulett said. "They don't just hand out those titles. You have to earn them, and they did. Same coach and scheme for a while now, so they know what they are doing. They will give you multiple looks on defense and play fast and let it fly on offense."

In 2019, the last time these two teams met, Andrews entered the game on an 11-game winning streak. Springtown prevailed 63-20 in that regional playoff match, and the Pines made it all the way to the state semifinals that season before falling to La Vega 27-14. The Pines were one game shy of contending for a state title.

Preparing the Pines for Friday's game against Andrews won't be complicated. Hulett teaches the same principles week in and week out.

"Be us," he said. "Play one play at a time. Lean on them - literally and metaphorically. Be the better team by doing our individual jobs and creating pressure on them and when it happens, take advantage of the opportunity."

The Pines did all that and more while battling Canyon over the weekend in the bi-district playoff match at Tiger Stadium in Snyder.

After a scoreless first quarter, Springtown grabbed a 14-7 lead heading into

Springtown band primed for halftime in Sweetwater after clinching Top 10 slot at state

BY JEFF PRINCE
jeff@azlenews.net

The Sound of Springtown nailed its two performances at the 4A state marching contest and did as well as any other band in school history.

"It is a huge honor to make finals and to end up as the ninth best 4A marching band in the state," said band director Scot McPhetridge.

Earning a Top 10 slot is difficult, but Springtown has made a habit of it in recent years. The band finished in ninth place in 2016 and 2018 after finishing in 10th place in 2012.

"We are maintaining our streak of ninth place," he said. "However, the competition was tougher than ever this year. All of the bands really stepped up their shows."

the locker room at halftime. Hulett has shown a tendency to make the right adjustments and say the right things during breaks, and the Pines have made a habit of playing strong in the second half.

Case in point: The Pines outscored Canyon 35-6 in the third quarter and sealed the game.

Final score: Springtown 49, Canyon 13.

How did the Pines win so convincingly?

“Honestly it was just a great team effort” Hulett said. “That seems like coach-speak, but ... we made plays in all three phases of the game and had multiple players make plays.”

The team celebrated after the game, but players have little time to dwell on their accomplishments. Winning a play-off game means preparing for the next foe immediately.

“It’s just a very good feeling for our boys and coaches, but we work to put it aside by Saturday morning after video and workout to move on to the next one,” Hulett said. “After all is said and done, we can look back and admire or relish in the victories.”

Springtown needs to beat five more playoff teams to claim a state title, beginning with Andrews.

Springtown (8-3) plays Andrews at 7 p.m. Friday at the Mustang Bowl, 1205 Ragland St., in Sweetwater. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students.

Springtown struggles at Northwest rodeo

BY JEFF PRINCE
jeff@azlenews.net

Cade Walker was the sole member of the Springtown rodeo team to finish among the leaders at the recent event at North Texas High School Rodeo Association Arena in Saginaw.

“It was a struggle, for sure,” said James Heil, the team sponsor. “Weather had the livestock all worked up, and we just fell short, unfortunately.”

Walker finished in seventh place in chute dogging.

Springtown’s difficulty at the rodeo was unexpected. The team is currently ranked among the best in North Texas.

The band will continue making beautiful noise at halftime shows during football playoff games for as long as the Springtown keep winning. This Friday, the Pines take on the Andrews Mustangs in Sweetwater.

Otherwise, “our marching season is mostly winding down,” the director said.

The band is about to transition to rehearsing region band try-out music as well as Christmas concert music.

In the spring, band students will compete at the solo and ensemble contest and UIL concert and sight-reading contest. By then, it will be time to start preparing for next year’s marching show.

The band rode this year’s show – The Game – all the way to the Top 10.

What’s next?

“For now, The Game is over, and we will be trying to create a show that will be even better than the one we played this year,” the director said. “No spoilers. We will keep it a secret and do a show reveal in the spring.”

Auditions for students will be held in late spring for their band placements for next year.

“This has been a fantastic season, and we cannot thank our Band Backers, Springtown ISD and the community of Springtown enough for all of the support,” McPhetridge said. “So many people contribute on so many levels to help our band students be successful on so many levels.”
