Springtown High School

Brainy, multi-talented student, twice-crowned queen named SHS valedictorian

Mitchell to study music education at Texas Christian University

MADELYN EDWARDS | TRI-COUNTY REPORTER

Springtown High School seniors Gracie Wilk and Kate Mitchell are the salutatorian and valedictorian, respectively, of the Class of 2024. Both students are expected to deliver speeches at Springtown's upcoming graduation ceremony.

springtownreporter@tricityreporter.com

The words of wisdom Springtown High School valedictorian Kate Mitchell wants to share with her fellow Class of 2024 graduates are to choose kindness. "It takes so much more effort to be mean and to hold grudges and to gossip," Mitchell said. "It takes so much effort and energy to do that, when you could just be nice and have a good day without really trying because people don't want to have an issue, so if you don't spend the energy on the issue, then there's not going to be an issue." But as far as she knows, being kind is not a problem for the SHS community at large. Teachers really care about their students, Mitchell said; fellow classmates are friendly, and administrators want to set up the high schoolers for success. "I love just all of the working parts and the people in this community and school district that are all trying to just build the best place that they can," she said. Mitchell has had a busy school year. She served as captain of the Springtown Showstoppers and drum major/French horn player for the Sound of Springtown while also being crowned queen twice — at homecoming in the fall and at prom in the spring. And she managed to secure her spot at the top of her class, academically.

Balancing band and dance team rehearsals alone has been a challenge for Mitchell. She would often spend 14 hour-days at SHS to keep up with her activities. "I would get up to the school at 6 a.m. to set up for marching rehearsal, have marching rehearsal until school starts, go to school all day, have dance practice from 4-6 (p.m.), and then stay after six to help a little bit, and then after six, 6:30 to 8:30, would be another marching rehearsal," Mitchell said.

Academically, Mitchell said she has high standards and has strived to maintain all As throughout high school. Just this year, she learned to accept a B grade. "You can't keep it up forever," she said. Mitchell had been ranked No. 1 in her class since freshman year, so being named valedictorian was exciting but not shocking to her, she said. Though getting the top spot is an achievable goal for freshmen, Mitchell wouldn't recommend that other students make that their main priority. She said she earned the valedictorian title because of her standards, not because she consciously sought it out.

"I think if you obsess over something like that, then you're going to be a lot less happy throughout high school when you should really be focusing on relationships," Mitchell said.

After graduation, Mitchell plans to attend Texas Christian University to study music education, and she may go on to earn a master's degree in performance. She hopes to combine her love of music and teaching — which she has some experience with through leading the dance team and as a drum ma-major — to become a band director.

Even as she prepares to graduate, Mitchell is still thinking about the student organizations she's leaving behind and wishes them success in the future. For the Sound of Springtown, which didn't make it to state this past year, she hopes the band members will be determined to do better in next year's competition. For the Showstoppers, she wants the dancers to build on this year's success at Nationals, move beyond the basics and be able to further their knowledge of technique.

"I want to make sure that I'm setting them up for success as well," she said.

SHS salutatorian: 'FFA has given me a place to just grow'

Wilk plans to study animal science, attend veterinary school in Illinois

MADELYN EDWARDS
springtownreporter@
tricountyreporter.com

SPRINGTOWN — Springtown High School senior Gracie Wilk found out last year she was ranked second in her class, so she made it her mission this year to hold on to that spot.

"I'm going to do everything in my power not to lose that," Wilk said about her thoughts at the time.

Wilk even tried not to talk about it with family for fear that she would jinx herself. Fortunately, her methods paid off, and she was named salutatorian for the Class of 2024.

"It's always (been) like a little personal goal of my own," Wilk said. "I've talked about it with my dad since I was little, but it wasn't something that I went into high school and said, 'I'm going to do that.' I went into it as if it happens, it happens; that would be amazing. But I want to have fun and do stuff and not focus on school so much because if I pour all of my energy into that, it's not going to happen."

While at SHS, Wilk dedicated plenty of time to the school's FFA chapter, where she served as treasurer, and participated in livestock competitions. She joined FFA as a sophomore after coming to Springtown in her freshman year. Wilk's dad serves in the military, so her family has moved multiple times during her life. She previously lived in Midwest states where groups like 4-H and FFA weren't as accessible to her.

Wilk dreams of becoming a veterinarian, so she got involved with Springtown FFA to move closer to that goal.

"FFA has given me a place to just grow," she said. "I started showing (livestock) and then the younger kids get into it, and then they come to you with questions and watching them get better and learn and grow and just really find themselves ... it was really fun, and I love it."

Despite not living in Springtown her whole life, Wilk was able to fit in and found a group of friends at SHS who care about her and encourage her.

"There's a community for everybody," she said. "Not everybody is interested in the same thing and is going to like the same people, but if you put yourself out there, you can find somewhere, and you can find yourself a little community that's going to help you grow and be yourself."

Time management is a lesson multiple SHS students say they have had to learn as high schoolers, and Wilk is no different. She's had to balance a job, school and spending time with her family all while staying at the barn to care for her animals until 9 p.m. every day.

"I'm very big on to-do lists," Wilk said. "Every day, you'll find me with a piece of paper, and I'm like, 'OK, this is what I'm doing today,' and at the end of the day, if I don't get all that done, I have to be OK with that because you can only do so much and not over exhaust yourself. I am totally guilty of that, and my mother would say the same thing, that I do too much. But if I want to do it, I'm going to do it, even if it's going to take up all my time."

After graduation, Wilk plans to move back to the Midwest and attend the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign to study animal science before joining the veterinarian program.

"I'm just super passionate about agriculture and that entire industry and super passionate about animal health," she said. "I always have been. I couldn't picture myself doing anything else."

In the end, Wilk wants to be remembered at SHS for her character.

"I don't ever want somebody's only thought of me to be negative," she said. "I think the biggest thing that you should be remembered for is just being a good person, even if it's only in one person's life."

MADELYN EDWARDS | TRI-COUNTY REPORTER

Gracie Wilk spent her time at Springtown High School as part of the FFA and competing in livestock shows. Last year, she won grand champion in the show bird competition at the Parker County Stock Show with her Old English Game Bantam Frank, who has since died of old age.
