Ware retires after 25 years with newspaper

ZACH FREEMAN

AZLE — Longtime newspaper publisher Kim Ware retires from the Tri-County Reporter Dec. 19. Ware served as publisher for the Azle News and The Springtown Epigraph — and their successor, the Tri-County Reporter — for more than a decade. In all, she has worked for the newspapers for more than 25 years.

Ware was born in Fort Worth to teenaged parents. Ware and her sister Johnna Bridges had to work hard growing up and learned self-dependence at an early age. In addition to working, their parents also invested in real estate, and they paid their daughters to clean, paint and fix up properties. Ware's family said her priorities include God, her children, her granddaughters and the community.

"She's strong," Bridges said of her sister. "She's always been strong. She's been through the hardest times, and she has a way of taking the hard times and turning them around to find something good in it, to make it worth it."

After having two children in a prior marriage, Kim met her now-husband, Mark Ware, in the late 1980s. Before ever becoming a Ware, Kim volunteered with and led a wide variety of youth sports organizations. In 1988, she was involved in her children's little league team in White Settlement where she made a mutual connection through Mark Ware's sister.

"She had already had a little boy and a little girl, who I fell in love with and ended up adopting shortly after we were married," Mark Ware said. "She was just a beautiful young lady and very independent."

Once the pair married in January 1989, she and her kids moved to Azle. Along with being heavily involved in community and volunteer work, Ware worked for an air conditioning and heating company at the time.

When daughter Kristen became a cheerleader for Azle High School, Kim Ware got involved by becoming the school's cheerleader sponsor, which meant serving as coach but also publishing the football program — including selling ads. When Kristen graduated, Kim stayed on in the position for several years.

Former Azle News and

Springtown Epigraph publisher, Bob Buckel, was impressed with all that Ware was doing in the community. Buckel reached out to Mark and Kim Ware to see if she'd be interested in a job. Kim Ware began working at The Springtown Epigraph in 1999 and soon began selling ads for The Azle News as well, eventually becoming advertising director for both papers. In that time, Buckel said she had become one of the "best advertising salespeople in Texas."

After Buckel's retirement from the newspaper, she was named publisher of both newspapers in 2012 and remained in that position as they transitioned to Tri-County Reporter. Under former owner Roberts Publishing, Kim Ware traveled and lived between Azle, Springtown and Hereford, managing the newspapers in those towns.

The Azle News and Springtown Epigraph were purchased by Hyde Media Group in 2021. Ware oversaw the merger and consolidation of the Springtown Epigraph and Azle News in 2023 while also acting as Hyde Media president.

Kim Ware has also served on the Lakeside City Council, has been board president for the Azle Area Chamber of Commerce and Springtown Area Chamber of Commerce, Azle Economic Development Board and served as president of the North & East Texas Press Association. She currently serves on the board for the Azle Area Ministerial Alliance. She has received numerous commendations, including The Texas Press Association's Frank W. Mayborn Award for Community Leadership and the AAMA's Lew and Sandy Shaffer Award.

She was named Azle Area Chamber of Commerce's Citizen of the Year in February.

However, Kim Ware's work behind the scenes may be more notable than the official positions she's held. For decades, she has quietly raised countless funds and spearheaded community events such as Sting Fling, Follow The Flag, Azle's National Day of Prayer, Christmas on Main Street and the Optimist Club of Azle's Christmas Bike Giveaway, and, more recently, a gala to raise funds and awareness for the Eagle Mountain Pregnancy Help Center.

ment Dec. 19, she looks forward to traveling, checking some items off her and her husband's bucket list, spending more time with her granddaughter and with her sister.

"She's been looking forward to this for some time," Mark Ware said. "I'm very proud that she's reached that point to be able to move into that next phase of her life."

Hyde Media Chief Operations Officer Sam

Houston will take over her duties for the time being while TCR sales representative Lora Paschal has been promoted to sales manager over Hyde Media.

"Kim has been a source of strength for Hyde Media and a constant source of information and support for me," Houston said. "She will definitely be missed."

LWPD, FYPD arrest two suspected drug traffickers carrying over two kilograms of cocaine

LAKE WORTH — The Lake Worth and Fort Worth Police Departments arrested two suspected drug traffickers after a car and foot chase ensued when the suspects tried to avoid arrest.

On Dec. 9, the Fort Worth District Attorney's office was attempting to arrest 31-year-old Eloy Eleazar Jr and 31-year-old Jorge Martinez for suspected trafficking of drugs when the two suspects fled the scene.

The first attempted arrest took place in the 5900 block of Lake Worth Boulevard when the two suspects drove off in a vehicle through a chain-link fence. Police followed suit. The car chase came to a halt when Martinez and Eleazar crashed their vehicle on Commerce Street and E. Second Street in downtown Fort Worth.

The suspects proceeded to flee the crash site and ran from authorities on foot when they finally were arrested by Lake Worth and Fort Worth police officers.

The suspects were found in possession of one firearm and more than two kilograms of cocaine, which, according to Lake Worth PD, is valued at $118,000.

There was a third party involved in the car crash in downtown Fort Worth who was transported to a local hospital and sustained non-life-threatening injuries.

The two suspects are not from the DFW area; Martinez is from Corpus Christi and Eleazar Jr. is from San Antonio. In a statement on the social platform X, Lake Worth PD said multiple felony charges are expected to come out of this case.

Lake Worth PD issued a statement assuring the public that criminals who engage in activity like this will be held accountable.

"The Lake Worth Police Department's mission is to create a safe environment where life and commerce thrive," the Lake Worth PRO team said. "Those who engage in the dangerous act of drug trafficking are not welcome and we will continue to use every tool at our disposal to hold anyone engaging in this type of criminal activity accountable."

Pelican Bay continues growing, allocates funds

PELICAN BAY — Pelican Bay City Council addressed issues of security, funding and growth at a Dec. 10 meeting.

Council members approved a memorandum of understanding with the Azle ISD Police Department which outlined reasonable communications and coordination of efforts between city and school law enforcement agencies. Pelican Bay Police Chief Brad Anderson noted the school district is asking all the communities it serves to accept the memorandum and that it will not make much difference in the day-to-day functions of the police department.

In deciding what to do with a potential $427,000 in American Rescue Plan Act funds, the council rejected bids for a drainage improvement project due to high costs. The council instead decided to allocate the sum in three parts: $302,000, $69,917 and $25,881, each of which can be spent for generators, stormwater mitigation, the water department, police

SEASON'S GREETINGS Inside

A legacy of love for community

JOLEE SKINNER
jolee@tricountyreporter.com

SPRINGTOWN, AZLE — For decades, Kim Ware has been a steadfast figure in the Springtown and Azle community. Ware has earned the respect and admiration of those who have worked alongside her.

To Mary Jo Harms, a long-time friend and former Springtown business owner, Ware's influence is defined by her work ethic, compassionate leadership and unwavering dedication to the community.

"Kim and I just clicked," Harms said. "We kind of think alike and our work ethic is about the same. She's a very special person to me."

Harms first met Kim in the early '80s through the Springtown Area Chamber of Commerce. At the time, Harms owned the Springtown Flower Shop and had joined the chamber in 1982. Ware was already making a name for herself as a trusted voice.

Harms and Ware quickly bonded and shared a passion for community service. Harms recalls one of her favorite memories of working alongside Ware, which was remodeling the front office of the chamber together.

Ware's colleagues, friends reflect on her impact in Azle, Springtown

"We spent a lot of time together, even late at night, picking out paint colors, flooring and making decisions," Harms said. "It was just one of those projects that brought us closer."

According to Harms, Ware's work ethic is unmatched and she has consistently gone above and beyond for her people.

"Her work ethic is 24/7," Harms said. "She listens, considers all angles and comes up with the best solutions. She's always thinking of what's best for the community."

Harms believes Ware's drive comes from her childhood and the influence of her father. Growing up, Ware helped her dad with rental properties.

"When I started investing in rental properties, Kim was the one I went to for advice," Harms said. "She sent me materials on contracts and shared her knowledge and I still use what she taught me."

Harms believes Kim's ability to connect with people and her commitment to her family sets her apart.

"She communicates well, listens to what people need and thinks everything through," Harms said. "And while she works nonstop, she always makes time for her family. That balance is incredible."

Hogy Hogle, owner of Hogle's Insurance in Azle, said he will miss Ware's presence within the business community.

"She is a wealth of energy, and if you need someone to spearhead a fundraiser, she is your 'go to' person," Hogle said.

Hogle said it would be impossible to mention all the civic events Ware has been part of over the years.

"I wish Kim much happiness in her retirement, and I thank her for all she has done for Azle. It's going to be lonely here on Main Street without her."

Ware has built a legacy of trust, compassion and a strong commitment to both the Springtown and Azle communities. Through the eyes of Dene Berry, a long-time colleague and friend, Kim's impact is not just professional but very personal.

Berry first met Ware in 2014 while working at Stillwater Retreat. At the time, Ware was with The Tri-County Reporter and their paths crossed through advertising. Their friendship bloomed as they became more involved with the Springtown Chamber of Commerce, where Dene served as an ambassador and then a board member.

"From the beginning, Kim stood out," Berry said. "She's incredibly intelligent, intuitive and welcoming. When you meet her, you feel like you've known her forever. She's trustworthy and someone you can turn to for answers about the community."

Berry vividly remembers the first time they met for lunch.

"There was an immediate sense of trust," she said. "That has never changed. Kim has always been the kind of person you could confide in and rely on."

Ware's ability to forge strong business relationships has had a profound effect on the people in both communities. Whether it's through local events, collaborating with businesses or simply offering advice, she's a figure in Springtown's growth.

"She's always been a go-to for anything related to the community," Berry said. "Her knowledge of Springtown and the surrounding areas is unmatched and she uses that knowledge to benefit everyone."

Berry added that Ware's momentum often means she runs on overdrive.

"She can do it all, but that can also be her biggest challenge," Berry said. "She's incredibly strong and driven but I hope she takes time for herself, too."

Berry often tells people if they ever get a chance to work for Ware, they're lucky. "In this world today, you don't come across leaders like Kim anymore," Berry said. "She's the whole package."

Randa Goode is a lending officer with Pinnacle Bank and serves as mayor pro tem for the City of Azle. She and Ware have worked together on many projects over the years.

"Kim Ware is a truly remarkable person who has touched the hearts of so many in the Azle community. She is a cornerstone of this town, and her contributions have made Azle what it is today," Goode said.

Goode said Ware has always been the first to step up when help is needed.

"Whether it's organizing community events, volunteering in numerous organizations, or simply offering a helping hand, her generosity knows no limits. She sees a problem or a need and immediately takes action, never waiting for someone else to fix it. Her actions are not driven by the desire for recognition but by a genuine love for this town. The community is incredibly fortunate to benefit from her unwavering efforts," Goode said.

"Kim's talents for organizing events and getting various groups to work together is truly extraordinary. She embodies the spirit of the Azle community and has shown us all what it means to care for one another, to lift each other up and to work together for the common good. Her efforts have not only brought people together but have also strengthened the fabric of our community," Goode added.

Goode said Azle is a better place because of Ware and for that, she is owed a debt of gratitude that words can barely express.

"Thank you, Kim, for your unwavering commitment, your boundless generosity and your heart of gold. You've given us all so much and we are eternally grateful. Your legacy of kindness and dedication will continue to inspire us all for years to come."

Tootie Hall, a member of the Springtown Chamber of Commerce and a former employee of The Springtown Epigraph, says meeting Ware was like finding a soulmate.

"It's just been a match made in heaven," Hall said. "We've always just totally enjoyed each other's company. If I needed anything, I called her and she did the same with me. It's just been a really great, very close friendship. She took everything to heart and took care of everybody."

Hall shares what her favorite thing to do with Ware is.

"Just laughing and making fun of each other," Hall said. "It is just the camaraderie and the ease of looking forward to going to work every day instead of thinking I have to get up and go to work."

The fun that Ware has with her friends matches the level of caring she exudes to everyone around her.

"But her caring level is far above anybody's that I know of," Hall said. "She has always, and everything she does has always been done with politeness and cordiality. She is the type that can motivate people nicely and they're more than happy to get something done."

David Shaffer, the incoming board president for the Azle chamber, credits Ware with his own involvement in the chamber. "I had known of and respected Kim from afar for many years. As I became more involved in the Azle community, our paths began crossing more regularly. One day, she called and asked if I might be willing to serve on the chamber board. I considered it and eventually said, 'Yes,' because of who asked me."

Shaffer added, "Kim is an impactor. She is well connected and gets things done, but all her efforts are enhanced because of her love for the community in which she has lived and worked. She is always working to improve things, and she loves a challenge! I owe a lot to my friend Kim Ware, and Azle is far better off because of her efforts. I wish her the very best as she retires from her role at the paper and am grateful for her continued local involvement."

David Miller, Springtown city administrator, said he has worked with Ware across a variety of roles in which they both served.

"From her time as an elected official in Lakeside, to her work as a Springtown Chamber board member, and of course most impactful her work with the TCR, I have always known Kim to be dedicated to the well-being and success of her community and the organizations she has served. The impacts she has made across multiple communities in the Tri-County area and beyond will be felt for many years to come. The City of Springtown wishes Kim the best of luck in her retirement," Miller said.

Based on the testimonials, Kim Ware's impact on the Springtown and Azle communities is undeniable. Her years of leadership, journalistic integrity and a profound legacy of dedication to everyone she encounters will be sorely missed at the Tri-County Reporter.

Farewell to a colleague, co-worker and dear friend

There are two articles in today's newspaper detailing the retirement of Kim Ware as publisher of the Tri-County Reporter. I instructed our staff to create the articles because I know people in our communities love Kim and appreciate the capacities in which she has served them. I felt they would want to stop for a moment and reflect on their friend and neighbor. They need to know she is leaving and to have the opportunity to show her the appreciation and acknowledgment she so richly deserves.

This past summer, at the Texas Press Association convention, I had the privilege of nominating Kim for the Frank W. Mayborn Award for Community Leadership. The selection committee had an easy time selecting Kim as the recipient. Please allow me to quote from my nomination letter.

"Few people can match Kim's boundless energy, enthusiasm, and dedication to improving her community. She is a humble servant who leads by example, who enriches the lives of those around her, and who elevates those which are lucky enough to associate with her.

"I can honestly say in my nearly 50 years of professional life, I value my business relationship with Kim above all others. She is a newspaper professional who does her job with skill and expertise but understands that community service is the 'rent which is paid' by citizens for living in a community. I assure you this woman has 'paid her account forward' many, many times over. She is revered by her fellow citizens, admired by her peers, and respected for her commitment to help others in need."

I have had the honor of working with many accomplished and successful people who come from a variety of different professions and life experiences. I can say without reservation, Kim is one of the best people I have ever known. She makes me feel both proud and humble to imagine she might call me her friend.

The future will seem very odd without Kim working beside me trying to build a better newspapers and better communities. It saddens me to think of the days to come when she will not be there to hear my rants, keep me in check, and offer a perspective that is fresh and meaningful. There were few times when we disagreed, and when we did the conflict was always respectful and meaningful. I like to think we made each other better. The truth is she made me better.

I find solace knowing she will have many years in retirement with her husband Mark and her family, traveling, enjoying life and looking back at a life well lived. I know I am a better man for having Kim Ware as my colleague and as my friend. It is a relationship I treasure and will long remember.

Enjoy your time away from the world of newspapering Kim. I hope your memories of an extraordinary career keep a smile on your face and warm your heart. Well done my friend ... well done!

Thought for the day: Just when you think you are at the end of something, you are about to start something else.

Until next time ... I will keep ridin' the storm out!

Superstitions 'bunked'...

I have never been a superstitious person---not until the recent Friday the Thirteenth. Truth is, I've chuckled at others who won't walk under ladders, change routes when black cats crossed their trails or wear the same unwashed "lucky" garments to extend sports victory strings.

Sad memories of my mid-morning calamity remain tender. But, tears dried, I am looking for an old telephone book. I'm thinking its yellow pages might list an organization for superstitious people. I'll join ASAP....

The day started well. I'd scored a 99 on the CPAP mask that my cardiologist said might extend my life. For the first three weeks, scores were in the 70s and 80s (much like my college transcript). They said if I'd work harder on mask placement, the hissing sound that kept me awake would go away, and it did.

Having taken on kitchen duties a while back, I decided to concoct a festive smoothie for my wife and me.

Truth to tell, it would give me a chance to use my Blendtec™ blender, an appliance purchased at an estate auction earlier this year for a mere $80. I outbid four others who also recognized this king of blenders. Sure enough, it turned out to be "like new," as the auctioneer claimed. Sadly, it no longer is....

Let me start at the beginning. For the super special smoothie, I tossed in more-than-called-for ingredients, doubling the recipe of chia and flax seeds, even if toothpicks would be required later. I used "globs" of premium yogurt and pure vanilla extract.

Then, I spotted a half bowl of Cool Whip with an expiration date in the previous week. Just as I was "globbing" a tablespoon of whipped cream into the blender, the phone rang. I hurried to answer before Voice Mail took over, leaving the "glob-filled" spoon in the jar....

It was my brother, Fred, beginning with seasonal greetings to introduce a 10-minute conversation about our infirmities. (He, too, is now in his 80s.) I returned to the kitchen, giving no thought to gravity laws. The spoon had sunk to the bottom of the 90-oz. jar that contained four pounds of ingredients.

For the next sixteen seconds--enough for two successful bull-riders--the gates of Hades prevailed. When I hit the "start" button, it sounded like bulls in a china shop. (Could those hard-frozen bananas be challenging my blender?)

During the first eight seconds, the smoothie--gushing like a worn-out fireplug-

-coated the counter to the breakfast table 15 feet away. The pinkish liquid drenched everything in its path, including the latest edition of Texas Monthly. I was unable to reach the on-off button, but eight seconds later, dislodged the power cord with a yardstick.

One petite cup of the precious drink remained in the jar. I strained it, fearful of ingesting a plastic chard. Tears drained into the cup from which I sipped reverently, as if participating in Holy Communion.

I prayed for strength, patience and the ability to take on a massive clean-up that would extend into the afternoon. I fear that dried residue inside drawers and in crevices might be discovered indefinitely....

My defense mechanism took over. Why couldn't Blendtec™ use metal jars? Why did my brother call at 10 a.m., knowing that he might rouse me from my slumber? Why did I go well above the "fill-to-here" line? Why did I stupidly leave a spoon in the jar? Alas, not my brother, not my sister, but it's me, oh Lord, standing in the need of prayer.

I asked Fred to refrain from calling next Christmas; he could send a card instead. But, there's a silver lining! I found a like-new replacement jar on eBay for just $80, the LAST ONE, delivered free! If it works, I'll still come out ahead. If it doesn't, maybe I'll go crying to Blendtec™. I'll also ask if they might like to buy parts remaining from a broken jar....

Azle retirement home uses baby dolls in dementia care, seeks sponsors

STAFF REPORT

AZLE — Legacy Oaks of Azle, a local senior living community, is partnering with The Grand Baby Project to introduce therapy dolls to its memory care residents and invites families, businesses and community members to support this initiative through sponsorship. Legacy Oaks aims to raise $1,800 to provide these dolls to each resident in memory care, offering comfort and companionship.

The Grand Baby Project, a nonprofit organization, provides dementia therapy dolls and training for care staff. Research shows that therapy dolls can help reduce anxiety, promote social interaction, encourage physical activity, and support emotional well-being in people with dementia. Therapy dolls are recognized as a valuable, nonpharmacologic option that helps residents cope with daily challenges.

"Legacy Oaks of Azle is committed to enhancing the lives of our residents, and therapy dolls are one way to make a positive impact," LOOA Executive Director Nichol Wesson said in a recent press release. "With the community's support, we hope to provide a therapy doll to every resident in memory care."

Each therapy doll sponsorship costs $75, and all donations are tax-deductible. The $1,800 goal will cover a therapy doll for each resident in memory care. Sponsors will be recognized and will be invited to join a community event celebrating this effort.

Sponsors will be tagged in all posts related to the program on Legacy Oaks' social media platforms. Sponsors will be invited to a baby shower event, where they can meet residents and families and learn about the program's impact. Sponsorship offers exposure within the senior care community and increases local brand awareness. Families, businesses and healthcare organizations are invited to contribute to this effort.

For further details on this sponsorship opportunity or the baby shower celebration, contact Nichol Wesson at Legacy Oaks of Azle through email at ed@legacyoaksazle.com or call 817-601-6183.

For more information about Legacy Oaks of Azle, please visit its website. For more information about the Grand Baby Project, visit its website at www.thegrand-babyproject.org.

"Some people think that might make them feel like they're a baby or something like that," LOOA Community Relations Director Kelly Case said at a Nov. 5 chamber lunch. "But what it does for them is ... maybe they don't want to take a bath or a shower that day, you can utilize that baby and say, 'well, baby Rose, it's time for her shower. Can you help me bathe her' And they'll be like, 'yes.' And then you can mention, 'well, next, let's do you.' So, it could kind of help with some of those behaviors that they might have gotten."

department and administrative needs, possibly including a new police cruiser or officer position. Feasibility studies and payments to GrantWorks are expected to constitute the remainder of the funds.

In an effort to reduce blind spots at the shared police department, city hall and water department property, the city council approved funds for new interior and exterior motion-activated security cameras. The exterior cameras will be solar powered and mounted high enough to not have any wires cut, Sgt. Justin Spurgeon told the council. The cost of the cameras for the police station is expected to total $1,083 and the cost for city hall will be $1,881.

Mayor Tamra Olague said problems arose after several of the city's current cameras fell into disfunction. The mayor said in one instance an individual managed to hide in blind spots in order to shoot out a window in the police station. In another instance, Olague said a bullet hole was discovered in the ceiling of city hall after it began to leak during a rainstorm.

The council also voted to annex five acres of unincorporated Tarrant County located at 149 Richard Lane at Liberty School Road. These five acres and an additional eight acres already located in the city are set to be the site of a new residential development and commercial area totaling 57 new homes. Frank Laux of Friendly Acres Quality Homes LLC presented a site map to council and elaborated on his company's plans. Pelican Bay has experienced significant residential development in just the last few years. Director of Public Works Mike Lowery estimates the city's population could be as high as 4,700 people with about 1,400 homes now in the area. The population was only 2,049 at the time of the 2020 census.

AZLE — Texas Health Azle Auxiliary volunteers rewarded and recognized Texas Health Harris Methodist Hospital Azle staff with an annual cookies and tea celebration Dec. 3. The event was organized by Carol Feemster, the hospitality chairperson, and other volunteers.

Participants expressed gratitude for the hard work of hospital staff, emphasizing the importance of the hospital in the heart of the Azle community. The gold theme of the event aligned with the auxiliary's 50th anniversary held earlier this year. "They go above and beyond every single day, and we are very appreciative of everything they do for us," THAA

President Peggy Helm said of hospital staff. "We're very grateful for them. The auxiliary really appreciates all the hospital employees, and this is our way of honoring them and showing our appreciation to them." Earlier in the day, the group also helped decorate the Christmas tree standing at the hospital's entrance.

OBITUARIES

James Bobbitt passed away Dec. 12, 2024 after a year-long fight with esophageal cancer.

Visitation was 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 17 at Flower Mound Family Funeral Home, 3550 Firewheel Drive, Flower Mound, Texas 75028. The funeral was at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18 at First Baptist Church Lewisville, 1251 Valley Ridge Blvd. Lewisville, Texas 75077. Graveside service will be at Springtown Cemetery, 123 Main St., Springtown, Texas 76082.

James Bobbitt was born Aug. 23, 1974, to Daniel and Glenda Bobbitt, and grew up in Springtown, with his brother Daniel "Tommy" Bobbitt Jr. James has always lived his life with a strong passion and love for his family, and that became coupled with a love for the fire service after seeing his stepdad, Bobby transported by EMS. Immediately after, James started his career in the fire service as a volunteer in Springtown, where he received the "Rookie of the Year" award and continued to serve for 10 years as a firefighter before joining the Flower Mound Fire Department in 2007.

During his 17 years of service to the Flower Mound Fire Department, James was twice awarded the Firefighter of the Year award. He is forever known by his peers as being a master in the craft of firemanship. He was a mentor to any and all who had the privilege to work a shift with him or to train with him. He was always calm in the midst of chaos, he had advice and encouragement for anyone needing it, and if there was any job you needed done, Bobbitt could do it.

Esophageal cancer is not one of the 11 presumptive cancers for firefighters in the State of Texas. During James' battle he made it his mission to help lay the groundwork to have his cancer added to that presumptive list so no other firefighters would have to fight the same battle he fought. His brothers intend to see that mission through to the end.

James is survived by his loving family: mother Glenda, brother Tommy, wife Amy, daughter Addison and stepchildren CJ, Rachael, Hillary and Justin. James loved them all unconditionally.

Jean Womack 1932 — 2024

Jean Womack was welcomed into heaven by her heavenly Father Tuesday, Dec. 10, 2024. Her beloved husband Bill was also waiting for her in heaven with open arms. Jean passed away on the fifth anniversary of Bill's death, a fitting tribute to their enduring love for each other.

Service was at 10 a.m. Friday, Dec. 13 at First Baptist Church Lakeside, under the direction of Biggers Funeral Home, 6100 Azle Ave., Fort Worth, Texas 76135.

Committal was at 2 p.m. at Live Oak Cemetery near Rio Vista.

Jean was born Oct. 18, 1932, in Green Cove Springs, Florida, and lived a full life of 92 years. Her life was deeply entwined with the three men she cherished most: Bill, Tex and Danny. She was a devoted stay-at-home mom, Cub Scout den mother, and the everyday referee of two growing boys. Jean worked side-by-side with Bill, running a tractor implement business and an auctioneer business. She was truly the centerpiece of her family.

Jean will be deeply missed by all who knew and loved her. Her legacy of love, dedication and family will live on in the hearts of those she touched.

She was preceded in death by her loving husband of 70 years, Bill; her son, Danny; her granddaughter, Jenise; and a daughter who died at birth. Jean also outlived all her siblings: two brothers, Robert and F.D., and two sisters, Clara and Frances.

Jean is survived by her son, Tex Womack (Wanda); a special niece she loved as a daughter, Joann (Darrell); three grandchildren, Zac (Amanda), Travis (Jenny), and Kindall (Matt); and 10 great-grandchildren.

Parker County appoints financial crimes investigator

STAFF REPORT

PARKER COUNTY — In a Dec. 11 press release, Parker County Sheriff Russ Authier announced the expansion of the Sheriff's Criminal Investigation Division with the creation of a financial crimes investigator position.

Authier said the continual rise in financial crimes necessitated the need to add an investigator's position whose primary focus is centered in the field.

"Financial crimes and related scams are among some of the fastest growing crimes in Texas," Authier said.

The Federal Trade Commission reported receiving 2.8-million fraud reports nationwide from consumers in 2021, equaling more than $5.8 billion in losses. That number has surged by over 70% in the last four years. In 2023 alone, the amount nearly doubled at $10 billion in financial crime loss reported across the United States.

Parker County also saw an uptick in the number of financial crimes reported, where in 2020, the Parker County Sheriff's Office Criminal Investigations Division received 209 financial crimes cases. By 2023, the number of these cases received increased by 58% to 331 cases involving wire fraud, forgery, counterfeiting, identity theft, ATM fraud/credit card and debit card abuse cases.

Previously, PCSO financial crimes cases were assigned on a rotating basis to property crimes investigators within the CID. The intricate nature of many financial crimes cases demands a specialized skill set and training as they are often some of the most challenging cases to solve.

"Following the unanimous approval by the Commissioner's Court, we conducted assessments to identify the most suitable candidate for the financial crimes investigator role," Sheriff Authier said. "Deputy Christian Townsend achieved the highest score and was promoted into this new position."

Townsend came to the PCSO in January 2023. His experience includes seven years' experience with New Mexico law enforcement and working major crimes investigations. Townsend has advanced training as a peace officer and holds undergraduate and graduate degrees in fields of study relating to law enforcement and public safety. He also has experience investigating numerous types of cases ranging from minor property crimes to homicides as well as investigating interstate federal offenses.

"The complexity of many financial crimes requires not only the application of specialized investigative techniques but also the promptness in intercepting transfers and the expertise to electronically trace these transactions," Authier said. "Funds can swiftly circulate through various channels, and with the emerging trend of digital currency, there is an urgent need for effective and timely resolutions."

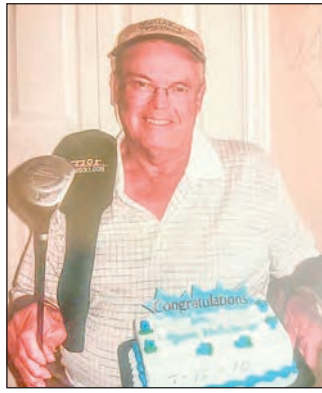

In just a few short months, Townsend has frozen or recovered more than $60,000 in funds and assets stolen from victims in fraudulent scams and transactions since taking the financial crimes investigator position. In October, Townsend made several arrests stemming from existing case investigations and has obtained additional arrest warrants in connection with new financial crimes cases received. He also seized $17,220 from an account used to collect and distribute funds stolen during a financial scheme. Townsend also obtained a seizure warrant for an account totaling more than $43,000 which is believed to have been used in a separate fraud case.

Authier expressed his gratitude to the Parker County Commissioner's Court for its unwavering support of the sheriff's office and for approving funding for the financial crimes investigator position.

ZACH FREEMAN

During a Nov. 19 Azle City Council meeting, Azle Animal Shelter staff were presented with a proclamation recognizing National Animal Shelter Week, the first full week of November, in the city of Azle.

"They do an awesome job," Mayor Alan Brundrett said. "All these people up here, they obviously don't do it for money. They do it because they love the animals, they love helping the animals and helping people. They have a large volunteer base. They wouldn't be able to do it without the volunteers."

The mayor congratulated staff on being able to remain a no-kill shelter.

PELICAN BAY — Pelican Bay Police Sgt. Justin Spurgeon was recognized with the city's Lifesaving Award for going above and beyond in the line of duty. At the start of the Dec. 10 Pelican Bay City Council meeting, Spurgeon was formally recognized with a medal for his actions saving the life of an unresponsive man during a June 26 call. Spurgeon joined the department as a patrol officer in March 2023.

"In my almost 15 years of chiefing, this is only the third one I've ever given out," Pelican Bay Police Chief Brad Anderson said. "When we arrived, the young man in question was not breathing. He only had a slight pulse that could be detected. Sgt. Spurgeon immediately started chest compressions, which continued for over 13 minutes. The young man began labored breathing due to Sgt. Spurgeon's actions and was sustained until medical personnel could arrive."

Anderson said Narcan was subsequently administered and the man began breathing on his own and became responsive.

"It feels great to be able to save someone's life and help the community on that day," Spurgeon said.

Hope from Heaven comes to Springtown

Administrator talks new location and future

SPRINGTOWN — Hope from Heaven, a nonprofit organization, has moved its headquarters into the former location of La Junta Baptist Church between Azle and Springtown on State Highway 199. Most recently, the location was known as Jay's Place Men's Development Center.

Hope from Heaven is a Christian-based nonprofit organization that was started in June 2021 by businessman Jack Martin, who serves as the organization's president.

The mission of Hope from Heaven is to help families in need.

Executive Administrator and board member Stephanie Lambeth said the new building will serve as the hub for all things related to Hope from Heaven and may be available for other organizations to rent for events, as well.

"We just want to be a part of a network of organizations and help revitalize the area," Lambeth said.

Martin bought the building and the property that came with it for just over $1 million. Parts of the building will be under construction in January to revitalize the space but plans to start using the building are already happening.

The big event put on every year by Hope from Heaven is its Christmas event that inspired the name of the organization. The event consists of local churches and volunteers coming together to give Christmas presents and essential items to families in need. And next year's location for the event has already been decided.

"Next year's event, I want to have it here by next Christmas," Lambeth said.

Hope from Heaven puts on other events as well like a Thanksgiving drive, a charity golf tournament and more.

Hope from Heaven has worked with other nonprofits like Servolution Network in Azle. Servolution's Executive Director Jason Malewiski has pretty much been with Hope from Heaven since the beginning and shared some of the origin story that prompted Martin to start the Christian-based charity.

"Hope From Heaven was a vision that brother Jack Martin had 15 years ago," Malewiski said. "We've been able to partner with and bless almost 150 families. Now, the Lord blessed them with a brand-new faculty. They do a wonderful program to one, share the Gospel, and two, love on the families with food, fun, fellowship and Christmas gifts. We love building community with them."

AAMA gives to local nonprofits

Exemplifying the "reason for the season," the Azle Area Ministerial Alliance gave several monetary gifts during its Dec. 10 luncheon hosted by Silver Creek Methodist Church. Before presenting checks to nonprofit organizations the AAMA supports, President Alton Davis read from scriptures that describe the importance of giving. Board members Dr. Wesley Shotwell, Larry Davis and Not present are board members Kim Ware and Paul Collins.

Stoney Stonebraker joined Alton Davis and coordinator Holly Killough in presenting a check for $6,000 to the Community Caring Center; $3,000 to Eagle Mountain Pregnancy Help Center; $3,000 to Good N.E.W.S. Living at Home/Block Nurse Program; and $1,500 to the Azle High School Marching Green pride. AAMA board members Paul Collins and Kim Ware were unable to attend the meeting. Much of the funding for the donations comes from proceeds from the Azle Lake Run, presented each November by the AAMA, which is a non-profit in its own right. In addition to bimonthly blood drives in partnership with Carter BloodCare, the organization also presents Azle's National Day of Prayer luncheon each May as well as Follow The Flag, a Christian patriotic celebration of America's Independence Day each July 4.

Students earn CNAs

32 AHS students receive nursing assistant certifications through Azle Manor

AZLE —This year, 32 students completed a certified nursing assistant program, offered by Azle High School, with a 100% pass rate. Students work at the eldercare facility from mid-October through the first of December, earning their state required hours. Health teacher Tiffany Shaw, who has worked at Azle ISD since 2008, said that by earning these certifications they're in a better position to earn additional specialized certifications later in the year.

AHS' Health Science Technology pathway offers various certifications, including certified nursing assistant, phlebotomy, electrocardiogram, patient care technician, pharmacy tech and most recently, emergency medical technician.

"Not many schools give as many certifications in the way that we give," Shaw said. "So, we're probably unique at Azle High School in giving four certifications in one class and then their senior year, they can choose to take pharmacy tech and get their pharmacy tech certification." The CNA program requires 100 hours, with 60 hours of classroom instruction and 40 hours of clinical experience at Azle Manor guided by registered nurse Cherie Stone. Since 2016, the program has provided more than 1,500 certifications, with around 350 for CNA alone. Despite the perfect pass rate, Shaw said the program presents no shortage of challenges to students.

"Health science is a rigorous program," Shaw said. "Every now and then we have a little stumbling block where they experience failure, which they need to experience failure, and they're in a safe space to experience that here at the high school, through our program. We can take care of that, and we can retest, or we can learn what we need to do better."

Around 2010 Suzanne Murr, the district's career and technical education director, approached Shaw with the idea to start a health science technology program. Pharmacy technology was the first certification the school began to offer with many others following. The school started its CNA program around 2016 and the program has grown significantly, now employing four health science teachers.

These programs are provided at little to no cost for students, which Shaw said is effective in removing a barrier to entry that might otherwise stop some students from breaking into the medical field. Many students use these certifications as steppingstones to higher education or direct entry into their chosen career path.

"I've had a couple of them who have worked using their certification at nighttime, and then they'll go to school during the day, because that's the opportunity that was given to them, and that's how they made it through college," Shaw said. "So, the program really helped the students get a good quality job that's also going to allow them to network and make contacts so they can have a successful college career, and just career in general, in the medical field ... We've also had students who absolutely just love the CNA work and so there's probably an equal amount who thrive working at our long-term care facilities around the area, you know, Lake Worth, Weatherford, Azle. So they've also made their career at just at working at one of the long-term care facilities because they enjoy that, the population that they get to work with there."

Through hands-on training and practicing medicine just like industry professionals, students participating in the program receive a strong foundation in a medical career path. Some students, Shaw said, have even made medical accomplishments before ever receiving their certification.

"We had a student last year who was running an EKG, and she's going through the points of the EKG, and she's like, 'this doesn't look right.' She found a conduction problem on another student and so she ultimately saved his life. That's probably one of the most rewarding aspects that I've had teaching," Shaw said.

In another instance, after her father had a heart attack, Shaw recalled being approached by a former student in a hospital cafeteria. The student now worked at the hospital and was thankful for the jumping off point and opportunities she received in high school.

"It was hard, but we're glad you pushed us to get to where we are," Shaw remembered the former student saying. "And one day it could be me (in the hospital). I obviously want to, want to train them up well."

AZLE — Cross Timbers fourth graders dished out holiday tunes to parents and peers with a concert celebrating the food of the Christmas season Dec. 5.

The event featured enthusiastic participation in various songs about students' favorite holiday foods. The performance was led by Madison Witt, a music teacher of nine years, who has been at Cross Timbers Elementary School for four years. Witt and her fourth-grade students have been preparing and practicing songs about Christmas foods and festivities for the last two months. Witt thought the holiday food theme would make for a fun concert and her favorite dinner table accoutrement featured in the show was mashed potatoes. "I'm proud of all of them," Witt said. "They did such a good job. I've had most of them in class for a long time, so it was really nice. I think that getting to have music in their life is important for all of them. It's a joy that brings a light to each of them."

In song, students declared what dishes they celebrated with. The usual fanfare was present along with ever-green favorites like pizza. Students would go on to sing "I Love Soup," a jazzy bop about mashed potatoes and the dreaded "Everlasting Fruitcake."

Fourth graders performed several times throughout the day, holding afternoon concerts for different student groups and an evening concert for parents and other family members. Cross Timbers students are done singing for this year but will return to the delight of their parents and peers with more concerts in May and April 2025.

According to advisors, FBLA inspires and prepares students to become community-minded business leaders in a global society through relevant career preparation and leadership experiences.

"We get a new group of students each year; Luke, Cullen and Nathan are all returning from last year. Students choose the event they would like to participate in in October, then they begin studying and/or working on their projects for the Area competition," advisor Tracey Knoll said. "Area provides students practice and feedback so they can improve at their event for the State Leadership Conference."

Knoll continued, saying FBLA helps students build leadership skills, business knowledge, foster a love for community service and create opportunities through networking, scholarships and career preparation.

Porcupine Academy: A year of growth, challenges and successes

Principal talks educational benefits from Porcupine Academy

SPRINGTOWN — Now in its second year, Porcupine Academy has faced its fair share of challenges, but the program is finding ways to support students who need a non-traditional approach to education.

Porcupine Academy was founded with the goal of helping students earn their high school diploma while preparing them for the future. Every student's goal is graduation, but the journey of how each student gets there looks different.

Principal of Porcupine Academy Andrew Horis points out that the informal three rules of the campus are "show up, work hard, be nice."

"We want students to understand that anything is possible when they put in the necessary effort," Horis said. "Our goal isn't just to help students graduate, but to teach them the mindset that will serve them in any endeavor."

Reflecting on the first year, Principal Horis shared that the academy has gone through significant change since its opening. The academy started out with a staff of three and now has expanded to seven. Horis says the academy's approach has been shaped by trial and error and continues to improve as the academy learns what works best for students.

"I can't say we had a perfect first year, but I am proud of how far we've come," Horis said. "We started with a small staff and we are now working together to create something special."

Porcupine Academy is a different model compared to traditional high schools. Students attend school for 260 minutes a day and have the flexibility to attend to other responsibilities.

Porcupine Academy's curriculum, which is Bright Thinker, is for students to complete only the basic courses required for graduation. This online curriculum aligns with Texas' graduation requirements. While it gets the job done, Horis emphasizes the need for in-person teaching.

"Bright Thinker is an excellent tool, but it can't replace the personalized attention a teacher can give," Horis said. "That's where our facilitators come in. They ensure students stay on track and provide the necessary feedback."

Porcupine Academy serves students who are facing academic and behavioral challenges. These students come to the academy after falling behind or struggling in a traditional school setting. While the program can be life-changing for many, Horis says it's not a quick fix for everyone.

"We do everything we can

to help students succeed, but they have to meet us halfway," Horis said. "If a student isn't willing to take responsibility for their learning, the program won't work for them."

One of the challenges at Porcupine Academy is the lack of extracurricular activities for students. Students cannot participate in sports, clubs or other school events at Springtown High School once they transfer to the academy. However, the academy is working on creating opportunities for students to have a sense of community through campus activities.

"We may not have the big events like pep rallies or prom, but we try to make up for it by celebrating academic progress in creative ways," Horis said. "We've had themed dress-up days and we reward students who are doing what they're supposed to do. It's about making students feel part of something bigger."

Despite the program's challenges, Porcupine Academy has lots of success stories. Since the academy opened last year, 13 students have graduated and have gone on to get full-time jobs or continue their education.

One student who faced lots of medical hardships completed two years of high school in less than one academic year. Another student who had struggled to take school seriously in the past achieved perfect attendance and now works in the oil and gas industry.

"These stories are what keep us going," Horis said. "We're here to help students succeed, no matter their circumstances."

As Porcupine Academy is in its second year, Horis remains focused on the academy's improvement. He believes that regular schools can learn from alternative education models like Porcupine Academy.

"Every student is capable of success if they have the right support systems in place," Horis said. "We are constantly evolving and finding new ways to help our students succeed and I'm excited to see where we'll be a year from now."

nosed with T-cell acute lymphoblastic leukemia July 7, 2022. The organization helps families dealing with childhood cancer with medical bills, treatments not covered by insurance or even just basic necessities. Recently, Lincoln the Brave was able to purchase hearing aids for a little girl.

Silver Dollar Classics Car Club President Gary Deming spoke a few words before the check was presented to Cunningham.

"Thank you to everyone who came out to the car show," Deming said. "We did really good this year, and we're really proud of it."

Cunningham then got up to say a few words before the check was presented to her organization and thanked the club.

"Lincoln was just a normal little boy, just going and doing all the boy things," Cunningham said. "And so, you can imagine it was a total and complete shock. I was just torn apart by what my son was enduring and then watching other families with their children fighting this ruthless disease. It does not care how old you are."

Cunningham revealed that when she first started the nonprofit, it was an attempt to try and control what was happening around her, but then she had a realization.

"But this nonprofit has become so much more than a desperate attempt at control," Cunningham said. "It has been so healing to me and to Lincoln. It has blessed us with abundant opportunities to meet other families fighting childhood cancer. And without you guys, we would not have the financial capabilities that we do to bless other people the way that we've been so blessed."

Cunningham also shared that her son has given his stamp of approval of the nonprofit.

"Lincoln has absolutely loved that we have a nonprofit," Cunningham said. "He thinks it's the coolest thing that he has a T-shirt with his name on it. And he thinks getting to be a part of a car show is every little boy's dream."

Lincoln went through his final IV chemotherapy Oct. 30 of this year and took his final chemo pill two weeks ago; he is now only on a routine antibiotic.

Mary Poppins, played by Lyla Castro.

NOVA WANG | TRI-COUNTY REPORTER

LILY HUDMAN

Special to the Tri-County Reporter

Azle High School performed its production of "Mary Poppins: The Broadway Musical" Nov. 21-24. Lyla Castro, who played Mary Poppins, stepped into the role perfectly, imitating Poppins' personality with just enough attitude and charm. She also put her incredible singing skills to use throughout the show, keeping the audience entertained. T.J. Bradford, who played Bert, gave the character dazzling flair with some humorous scenes, making the audience laugh.

Overall, the backstage and sound crew kept the production running smoothly and the cast each embodied their roles very well, making the production pleasurable and a great way to spend the evening.

We welcome your comments or suggestions on information you would like to see reported on this page. Please call Azle City Hall, 817-444-2541, or email Assistant to the City Manager Susie Hiles at shiles@cityofazle.org. Until next month.....

CWD Christmas Tree Collection and Recycling

CWD will collect used Christmas Trees on your second collection day or your Wednesday brush day. Residents may also drop off their trees to be recycled December 25, 2024 - January 10, 2025 at Azle City Hall, 505 W. Main St. A roll off container will be located on the very last row of the parking lot for residents to use at any time. In order for trees to be recyclable, please remove all ornaments, tinsel, bags and plastic.

Recycle Your Non-working Holiday Lights

After the Christmas season is over, many people toss non-working Christmas lights in the garbage. Christmas lights, like most electronics, are not bio-degradable and will not decompose into the earth's soil. If you want to keep your lights from going to a landfill and do your part to look after the earth, recycling your lights is a great way to do it. However, DO NOT put them in the recycle bin as they tangle up recycling machinery.

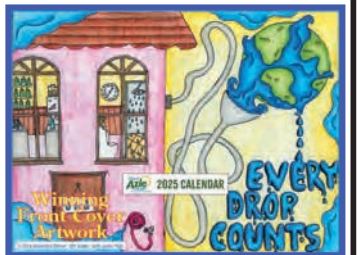

The City of Azle has a roll off container, located on the very last row of the parking lot at City Hall, for residents to use anytime. The container will be there until January 10, 2025.

CWD Holiday Collection Schedule

Residential trash and recycling collection schedules will slide one day. For more information, call CWD at (972) 392-9300 or visit the CWD website at www.communitywastesdisposal.com

Every Drop Counts 2025 Calendar

The 2025 Every Drop Counts calendar is here! The calendar consists of artwork from winners of the 2024 Every Drop Counts poster contest as well as helpful water saving tips. You can purchase your calendar at Azle City Hall for $10. Proceeds from the calendar will be used to support the EDC poster contest program in order to continue to educate our youth (and adults) on water conservation.

Stormwater Utility Fee Exemption

In 2000, the Azle City Council adopted an ordinance which established the Stormwater Utility Fee (SFU). Residential account holders over the age of 65 qualify for an exemption. If you are being billed for "SFU" charges on your utility bill, you can have this fee removed from your account by supplying documentation that establishes your date of birth. Please bring this documentation to City Hall, 505 W. Main St, Utility Billing Dept; fax a copy to 817-444-7319, Attn: Utility Billing; or include it with your next payment.

The Stormwater Utility Fee is based on the concept that every property in a watershed contributes stormwater runoff and should support the operation, maintenance, and rehabilitation of stormwater drainage systems in the City. The fee is applied to all residential and commercial properties located within the city limits.

If you have questions regarding the City's stormwater management plan, contact Stormwater Manager Jimmy Duvall at 817-444-4511; and if you have questions about the fee, contact Utility Billing at 817-444-2541.

TRI-COUNTY REPORTER

A Christmas Greeting

When it comes to Christmas there are a lot of emotions which live in each one of us. Memories of Christmases past spent with family and friends, or experiences like Christmas on Main Street and Old Fashioned Christmas, are burned into our minds and warm our hearts when they are rekindled. I am sure for most of us, one of the best memories is seeing small children excited about Santa.

This year, as is our tradition, the Tri-County Reporter reached out to our elementary schools and secured hundreds of Letters to Santa from our local second graders to share their Christmas wishes with us all.

As I looked over the letters, I could feel the hope, love, and innocence of the small children who wrote them. Some letters were very funny, some poignant, and others were simply warm and engaging.

The Tri-County Reporter is YOUR community newspaper, and it is our pleasure to print these letters for your enjoyment. It is my hope the authors of the letters have a memory which they will never forget, and you readers get a smile on your face.

From the bottom of my heart, and from the staff of the Tri-County Reporter, Merry Christmas!
