2025-2026 Windsor Central School District’s Universal Pre-kindergarten Program for 3PK and 4PK Students

Applications are now being accepted for the 2025-2026 Universal Prekindergarten Program (4PK and 3PK) in the Windsor Central School District. The program is free for Windsor school district residents.

To be eligible for 4PK, a student must be 4 years old on or before December 1, 2025. To be eligible for 3PK, a student must be 3 years old on or before December 1, 2025. All students must meet New York State immunization requirements.

If interested, please visit our website ( www.windsor-csd.org ) and follow the Universal Prekindergarten program link under Programs or contact Amy Barton at 607-655-8216 for assistance.

Students will be placed through a lottery, as required by the New York State Education Department guidelines. Pre-K students will attend either the 3PK or 4PK program in the school zone where they live. If that class is full, students will attend the next closest building.

All plans for 2025-2026 UPK program are tentative and depend on receiving enough funding from the State Education Department.

Fun facts About Spring!

--The first day of spring is called the Vernal Equinox – This usually happens around March 19-21 in the Northern Hemisphere, when day and night are nearly equal in length.

--Baby animals galore! – Spring is when many animals, including birds, rabbits, and deer, give birth.

--Plants wake up – Trees and flowers start blooming because of increased sunlight and warmer temperatures.

--Spring fever is real – As temperatures rise, people feel more energetic due to increased sunlight boosting serotonin (the “happy” chemical).

--Birds migrate back home – Many birds, like robins and swallows, return north after spending the winter in warmer places.

NYSEG lineman Brett Pendorf spoke to interested WCHS students

By Windsor School District

NYSEG lineman Brett Pendorf spoke to interested WCHS students Thursday about his job and the steps he took to have a career as a lineman. He demonstrated the equipment he uses and explained what students could do if they want to become a lineman. “When I was their age, I didn’t know what was available. With this job, you can help people and make a good living,” said Pendorf. “I could see myself doing this,” said WCHS sophomore Andrew Bennett.

WINDSOR FARMER'S MARKET NOW OPEN

At the Community House every Saturday from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m.

Windsor Farmers Market

The Windsor Farmers Market has been a tradition in Windsor for decades. We offer local farmers, crafters and food processors an affordable venue for selling their products and are a regular Saturday morning stop for many local residents as well as the many out of state campers and tourists who visit our lovely lake and river campsites and tourist attractions. Windsor offers both a summer outdoor market and a winter indoor market so many of our products are available year-round, with many vendors also accepting orders for pickup/delivery outside of market hours. Our vendors accept Farmers Market Nutrition Program and Broome County Veterans coupons.

The market operates on Saturdays from 9am-1pm at the Windsor Community house. June-October the market takes place weekly. November-April the market operates every other week and closes for the month of May. It is managed by Pat Van Housen, Donna Frazier and Susan Symonette.

Contact the market: wfmongthegreen@gmail.com

The market can be found on Facebook at: <https://www.facebook.com/WFMatWindsorVillageGreen>

Superintendent’s Conference Day

By Windsor School District

Windsor Central School District teachers engaged in a range of professional development activities during Friday’s Superintendent’s Conference Day.

Elementary educators concluded their two-year training in LETRS, a program that teaches the skills needed to master the foundational and fundamentals of reading and writing instruction, using research-proven strategies.

New York Governor Kathy Hochul announced that all teachers and teacher training programs will shift to the Science of Reading.

The science of reading refers to a body of research from the fields of education, cognitive psychology, developmental psychology, and neuroscience, that explains how individuals learn how to read and best practices for reading instruction.

“This was an opportunity to train all of our staff and get in front of these best practices to ensure all of our students are getting instruction to ensure they’re successful in reading, writing, listening, and speaking,” said Barb Tasber, Director of Learning, Leadership, & Technology.

Windsor Central Middle School hosted a workshop on artificial intelligence, specifically seeing if AI can help answer the four critical questions of collaborative teams: what do we want students to know, how will we know they know it, what will we do if they don’t know it, and what will we do if they already know it?

“As with all things in education technology, it’s about added value and time saved. It’s not just about the shiny new thing. Can AI identify trends in assessment data that we wouldn’t see or that would take us a long time to see?” said middle school teacher Cole Battaglini, who led the AI session. “I believe AI is a tool that can usher in the next Renaissance of learning. We’d be doing ourselves a disservice if we didn’t build a comfort level with it. It can help us create future-ready learners, which is why we’re here.”

High school teachers focused on learning instructional strategies for the classroom, using data by course and subgroup to provide equitable instruction, leading to mastery and success for all students. The presentation accounted for the varying learning styles of students and identified how to embed a variety of strategies to meet all learners.

“The whole point of this day is to give teachers a toolbox full of instructional strategies so that all learners can achieve at high levels,” said WCHS associate principal Kelly Warwick.

Teachers left Friday with a plan about using these strategies in their classrooms as soon as next week.

Windsor CSD Hosts 18th Annual Safety Night

By Windsor School District

The Windsor Central School District held its 18th annual Safety Night Thursday. Members of local fire departments, New York State Police, and the Broome County Sheriff’s Office joined teachers, staff, and students to be better prepared in case of emergency.

“It’s about making connections with first responders, our teachers, our staff, and our students. There are daily safety concerns, so knowing how to deal with all types of safety concerns is important,” said Chris Klumpp, Windsor Central High School Director of Athletics, Health, and Safety.

The group prepared for safety, medical, fire, mental health, and facilities emergencies, applying the district’s safety plan for each, and testing that plan’s effectiveness.

“We want to make sure that we bring everybody together so that when a response is required, everyone knows what their role is,” Timothy Neumuth, NYS Police Trooper, School Community Outreach Coordinator. “The importance of this event is at least a nine (on a scale of 10). You can still do it without knowing all those people, but if you know the names and faces, it makes it a lot easier. The more you get to know those people, the more you know their skills, the more you know what they’re capable of and that’s the key in a stressful situation. Without this forum, we’re not going to get that”

“There’s not a year that has gone by when we haven’t implemented some change because of what we learn here. We hear a perspective we haven’t heard before,” said Dr. Jason Andrews, Superintendent of the Windsor CSD.

Among the safety upgrades over the past year in the district is the expansion of the Vigilon camera system. There are now 204 cameras up and running in the five district buildings.

Staff have also continued their training in Trauma Informed Skills for Educators (TISE) and Cognitive Behavioral Intervention for Trauma in Schools (CBITS), thanks to the STOP School Violence Grant. The grant is also funding universal social-emotional learning programs to try to assist students before they become safety risks.

Windsor Central High School students brought their perspective the district’s approach to safety during the event.

“We want to have an understanding of how exactly the adults who would be in charge of us know what their duties are so we can support them and guide other students in the right general direction,” said WCHS senior Cameron Wallace.

Town of Colesville Offices

The Town of Colesville lies in the northeast part of Broome County and is bounded on the north by Chenango County, on the east by the Town of Sanford, on the south by the Town of Windsor, and on the west by the Towns of Kirkwood and Fenton. The town was formed on April 3, 1821, from the Town of Windsor. Harpursville is the largest hamlet in the town although it is not incorporated.

Colesville derives its name from pioneer Nathaniel Cole, a revolutionary soldier. He settled here in 1795, on a hill south of Harpursville, known as Coles Hill. He built a tavern there which was in operation as early as 1800. It was the first tavern between Albany and Binghamton. Broome County’s Nathaniel Cole Park was opened in the town in 1974 and is located about two miles from the site of its namesake’s tavern.
